Deliberations Resume Against Manson, Trio

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Climaxing seven months of trial, the Sharon Tate murder jury is deliberating after hearing a prosecutor tell them Charles Manson and his three codefendants lived by "a religion of death, blood and murder."

The seven-man, five-woman jury deliberated for 70 minutes Friday after receiving its charge from the judge. It resumes today.

Manson, 36, although barred from the courtroom for unruly behavior, managed to inject a comment before the jury retired.

"Tell them why we couldn't put on a defense, old man," he shouted from an adjoining room just after the judge finished reading the charge.

In his final summation, Deputy Dist. Atty. Vincent T. Bugliosi called out the names of the seven victims who, he said,

"from their graves cry out for justice."

He called the August 1969 slayings "perhaps the most inhuman horror-filled hour of savage murder and human slaughter in the recorded annals of crime."

As the helpless victims begged and screamed out into the night for their lives, their life-blood gushed out of their bodies forming rivers of gore," Bugliosi said.

Earlier, he summarized evidence against the women, Susan Atkins, 22, Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, and Leslie Van Houten, 21. The state asked for first-degree murder and conspiracy convictions against all.

Defense attorneys in their summations said the defendants are innocent and other unknown persons did the killings. They said the state's star witness, Linda Kasabian, lied in order to gain immunity from prosecution.

In his instructions to the jury, Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older told them that if they determined the defendants committed the murders, Mrs. Kasabian would legally be an accomplice whose testimony must be corroborated.

A conviction cannot come on testimony of an accomplice alone, he said, and such testimony "is to be treated with distrust." However, the instruction said, the evidence required to corroborate an accomplice "may be slight."

Mrs. Kasabian, 21, spent 18 days on the witness stand telling her version of what happened on the two nights in which Miss Tate and four visitors and a wealthy market owner and his wife were slain.

The defense did not call witnesses in the trial, and jurors were instructed that they could not draw any inference of guilt because they chose not to take the stand. Manson testified, but in the absence of the jury, and declined to repeat his remarks for them.

In the event of a first-degree murder conviction, the same jury would fix the penalty at death or life imprisonment. The jury, locked up since testimony began, would remain sequestered for the second phase.

The state has subpoenaed 30 to 40 witnesses for penalty phase testimony. Chief defense attorney Paul Fitzgerald said that if the state presents a lengthy case, the defense will have one of equal length or longer. He said such a conviction would declare the defendants "guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, but not beyond any doubt at all," and the defense would seek to inject such doubt through testimony.

Swiss Diplomat Freed After Terms Are Met

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazilian terrorists today freed Giovanni Enrico Bucher, the Swiss ambassador they kidnapped 40 days ago.

The 57-year-old diplomat returned to his Rio residence two days after the Brazilian government granted his kidnappers' demands to fly 70 prisoners to political asylum in Chile.

After receiving confirmation that the prisoners had arrived safely in Santiago, the kidnappers reportedly telephoned the Brazilian Embassy Friday night and told where Bucher could be picked up.

Embassy sources said Swiss First Minister William Roth received the call and drove away to get the kidnapped ambassador. Roth arrived at Bucher's residence early today driving a car with diplomatic plates, and the ambassador, wearing dark clothing and dark glasses, was beside him in the front seat.

The ambassador told his sister, Anne Marie Maillot, his servants and some embassy officials:

"I thank the Brazilian government for having helped me. I'm very touched by the death of agent Helio."

This was a reference to Helio de Araujo, a guard who died from gunshot wounds he received in the kidnapping.

"I didn't see anything because I was immediately blindfolded and I have no idea where I was," Bucher said. "I thank everybody for everything done for my release."

As the ambassador spoke, Roth interrupted and advised him not to go into details before a news conference, scheduled later today.

Bucher was kidnapped Dec. 7 when his car was ambushed on a quiet residential street. Witnesses said seven men and a woman blocked the street with two cars, shot the guard and spirited away the ambassador in another car.

The Brazilian military government was tougher in dealing with Bucher's kidnappers than it had been in other abductions. It turned down their demands to publish a political manifesto and grant free rides on commuter trains during negotiations and agreed to free only political prisoners as ransom. Authorities even turned down three lists of prisoners before an agreement was reached.

The selection of prisoners to be freed stretched into weeks, and agreement was reached only last weekend. There followed another unexplained delay, and there was speculation that police and soldiers were being given one last chance to find the kidnappers' hideout.

Police dragnets were increased, roadblocks were set up, and house-to-house searches intensified. Several suspected members of the Popular Revolutionary Vanguard, the group that kidnapped Bucher, were arrested in Rio and Sao Paulo, and there were rumors that police were giving tough interrogations to learn where the ambassador was being held.

Bucher was the fourth foreign diplomat abducted by Brazilian terrorists in 15 months. The other three, the American and West German ambassadors and the Japanese consul general in Sao Paulo, were released within hours after the government agreed to their kidnappers' demands.

Sixty prisoners were exchanged for the previous three hostages—10 prisoners less than the number freed in exchange for Bucher alone. Bucher also was held captive much longer than the other three diplomats combined. The Bucher kidnapping was the costliest in terms of lives. At least five persons were killed directly or indirectly because of it.

The victims were Bucher's bodyguard; an unidentified man police said was slain by terrorists trying to steal his car; two students machine-gunned by police at a roadblock; and a terrorist killed in Belo Horizonte, north of Rio, while reportedly trying to escape from police.

Icy Trails in the Mighty Hudson

Fast floe ice approximately eight inches thick swirls through Huron River Channel south of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge. Ice Breaker Mahoney started up river today from West Point. The Mahoney and the Red Beech will begin regular runs as far as Albany to keep shipping lanes open on the river. This year's ice cover is somewhat light for January. A record freeze was recorded in the winter of 1947-48 when up to two foot of ice defied the rugged cutter's best efforts. (Freeman photo by Haines.)

Local Union Members Support Walkout

Phone Customers Face Service Delays

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON Hudson Valley telephone customers face delays in service today and Sunday as the 900 members of Local 1120, Communications Workers of America, continue their walkout in support of striking New York Telephone Co. employees in New York City.

Members of Local 1120, who handle service repairs in Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Monticello, voted Friday to continue their sympathy strike in support of the city local. A membership meeting was held Friday at the VFW Hall here.

The strike has spread throughout most sections of New York State, with an estimated 40,000 workers refusing to report to work. Most of those on strike are from the New York City area.

The action began Monday when New York City union members refused to report to work because the Telephone Company had "imported" 1,000 workers from outside the state to improve poor service. The out-of-town mechanics were paid on an overtime basis. The strike spread to a statewide basis on Thursday.

Hudson Valley union officials explained their sympathy strike by stating, "The same thing could happen here." Robert E. Smith, Local 1120 president, indicated that it was possible for out-of-state workers to be called into the Hudson Valley area to bolster service capabilities.

As a result of the strike here, repair and service operations are being handled by management personnel.

Miss Marion Tongue, Business Manager of the Kingston office of the New York Telephone Co. said, however, that the strike "is not affecting the performance of the company," but, she added, "repair and service calls will be delayed."

Miss Tongue indicated that no serious problems have been encountered because of the walkout.

Union officials said Friday that they might return to work on a temporary basis, but only in the case of extreme emergency.

Operators and business office personnel have continued to report to work.

There has been no word from union leaders as to the course of action they might take on Monday and Miss Tongue said that she has received no indication from Local leaders whether they intend to report back to work Monday morning.

Local 1101, CWA, in New York City said Friday that they would negotiate if the 1,000 technicians and craftsmen were sent home. The telephone company, however, has rejected this concession.

Meanwhile, lawyers for the New York City local were scheduled to appear in court today to show cause before U.S. District Judge John M. Canella why the union and its president should not be fined for not ending the work stoppage under terms of a previous court order.

If Canella is not satisfied with the union's explanation for the continued walkout, the local and its president, Howard Banker, could be subjected to additional fines.

As of Friday, Canella has levied progressive fines totaling $112,500 against the union and has threatened additional fines that could total $100,000 per day if the workers do not end their strike.

While operators in the Hudson Valley and New York City have refused to honor the picket lines, some traffic operators in western New York have refused to report to work. Some 2,100

CWA members in three locals were joined Friday by between 500 and 600 of the region's 1,500 operators. It marked the first time in history that the operators had honored a CWA picket line.

There was no indication, however, that the action would spread on a statewide basis. Officials in Kingston said they expected operators here to continue to report to work.

While some CWA workers in the central part of the state have supported the strike by remaining off the job, service repairmen in Syracuse, Elmira, Binghamton, Ithaca and Geneva are still reporting. A CWA spokesman, however, warned, "We don't know how long we'll be able to keep them at work."

Most New York Patrolmen Stay Off Jobs

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite a back-to-work court order and jawboning ordered by police brass, nearly all of the city's patrolmen today refused to perform regular tasks for a third day in a dispute over pay.

Essential and emergency services were maintained by a few patrolmen and 6,500 superior officers and detectives who found themselves in long-unfamiliar roles.

Police spokesmen said more than 75 per cent of the 25,000 patrolmen participated in the job action Friday, with precinct figures ranging from 75 to 95 per cent.

Reports early today indicated patrolmen were continuing to sign in at their stationhouses but refusing to do normal work. Some stationhouses said a number of patrolmen failed to show at all.

Mayor John V. Lindsay said Friday the situation was serious, but the safety of the city's eight million residents was protected.

Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy said the department which canceled all holidays and leaves and ordered overtime, could operate in such a fashion for "a few days."

No unusual disturbances were reported but police said the number of patrol cars answering calls was down about 50 per cent. There was no indication of a change in the crime rate.

Lindsay ordered the city labor relations director to work around-the-clock for new contracts with policemen, sanitation men and firemen. All three uniformed forces have been without contracts since Jan. 1.

Formal talks were set for a morning meeting.

A mayoral spokesman said the president of the patrolman's union would take part in the talks, indicating they would include the pay issue involving ratios of wages between patrolmen and sergeants.

Patrolmen reporting for the first shift today were read a copy of the order obtained in state Supreme Court telling the men in blue to return to work, pending a hearing Monday.

Reading of the order was directed by Chief Inspector Michael Cood, the highest ranking officer in the department.

A spokesman for Edward J. Kiernan, president of the Patrolman's Benevolent Association, said the order "will make no difference" because the court papers named the union's officers which opposed the job action.

Patrolmen began refusing normal duties Thursday evening as word spread that the state's highest court had decided a trial was needed to settle the parity controversy.

Lower courts had said the patrolmen were entitled to annual salary increases of $1,200 and back pay increments totaling $2,700.

Humphrey Visits Orange

Former Vice President Hubert Humphrey, now the junior senator from Minnesota, chats with youngsters after an Orange County appearance Friday. Humphrey spoke at Tuxedo High School, where he called on the Nixon administration to institute wide ranging educational reforms. The newly elected senator called for substantial increases in the federal investment in education and suggested creation of a federal education trust fund. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Unity Service In Saugerties

SAUGERTIES
The Saugerties Area Council of Churches and St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church will sponsor a service of Christian Unity on Sunday at St. Mary of the Snow Church, at 7:30 p.m. Participating in the service will be pastors and laymen of the Congregational, Lutheran, Reformed, Roman Catholic, and United Methodist churches of the Saugerties Area. The entire community may share in this ecumenical service, and in the fellowship hour to follow. Arrangements for the service of Christian Unity have been made with the Rt. Rev. Magr. Charles Kaufmann of St. Mary's, and a committee from the Saugerties Area Council of Churches with Miss Carolyn Wood as coordinator. Laymen from St. Mary's church have guided the distribution of bulletin inserts and posters for the community. With the help of the women of the Rosary Society, the Sodality of Our Lady organization, the PTA of St. Mary's School, a fellowship hour has been arranged in the school cafeteria following the service of worship. Laymen and pastors sharing in the service of worship are Karl Pietkiewicz and John Drewes, leading in the reading of the Scriptures. Msgr. Kaufmann, the greeting and word of welcome. The Rev. Frederick Imhoff, leading in the prayers and litanies, the Rev. Robert Hess of the Flatbush

Reformed Church sharing with the Benediction, and the Rev. William Baudendistel of the Saugerties United Methodist Church, giving the evening meditation. The Rev. Mr. Imhoff is pastor of the Congregational Church of Saugerties. The Order of Service for the worship hour is the combined effort of the National Council of Churches, the World Council of Churches, the Graymoor Ecumenical Institute, and is recommended by the Committee of the National Council of Catholic Bishops. The service is held as a beginning to the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity, Jan. 18-25, and is observed in like manner in communities throughout the United States.

Ministry Dropouts Cite Many Stresses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
One of every four Roman Catholic priests is considering quitting the ministry because of severe emotional stress, a study indicates. Among Protestants, the problem is only half as acute, with one of every eight Protestant ministers considering resignation.

The comparative findings were drawn by a University of Notre Dame sociologist, Dr. John P. Koval, from an analysis of data from 1,500 Catholic priests and 5,000 ministers of 21 Protestant denominations. "Over-all, we find not only that Catholics have a relatively higher incidence of severe stress than the Protestant clergy (25 per cent vs. 12 per cent) but their high stress incidence is also accompanied by a greater proportion of multiple stresses," Koval says.

The main problems reported by Catholic clergymen include conflicts with superiors, loneliness, lack of support from colleagues, claims of inadequate leadership, a desire to marry, and disappointment with Church stands on moral issues. For Protestants, the main difficulties were found to center on job factors such as inadequate pay and a sense of "futility and ineffectiveness of the church's work," rather than on the personal dimension.

Collaborating with Koval in the study were the Rev. Richard Bell of Loyola University in Chicago and the Rev. Edgar W. Mills of the National Council of Churches. The material was taken from a Protestant clergy support study and a national study of celibacy sponsored by the National Federation of Priests' Councils.

In regard to feelings among Protestant clergy that they're underpaid, another study by the Episcopal Church Foundation found that laymen think ministers' salaries may nearly double by 1975, and that they should go even higher. The nationwide survey among lay men and women, seeking to determine what kind of clergymen can best serve parishes in the future, found that a solid grounding in theology was considered the first requirement. The ideal clergymen also should be "an interesting and relevant preacher," have a lively interest in young people and "skill in family counseling," the study found. But few laymen expect the minister to be an expert fund-raiser or administrator. About half favor ordaining women.

The study found a pervasive "generation gap" among clergy, with about twice as many younger priests under age 45, citing dissatisfaction as those over that age.

Immanuel Church Elects '71 Council
KINGSTON
Immanuel Lutheran Church, 22 Livingston Street, Kingston, Deacons concern themselves primarily with the general business operations of Immanuel. Burton Shoemaker was elected as an elder. Elders assist the pastor in meeting the spiritual needs of the congregation. Still holding terms of office on the Immanuel Council are the following Deacons: Paul Ellerbrock; William Thiel, who also serves as parish secretary; Albert Studdt; Frank Peller, who also serves as treasurer of the congregation; and Carl Nickerson.

August Wiedeman and Norman Luedtke are still filling out terms of office as elders. Clayton Albrecht, newly elected deacon, was selected as Immanuel's financial secretary, and Wiedemann was elected to a second term of office as president of the congregation. According to the Rev. Gary L. Mehl, pastor of Immanuel, "this church council offers Immanuel a good blend of creative and practical leadership that will enable her to achieve successful parish goals as well as greater involvement in the community."

The entire council will be officially installed during the 10:30 a.m. worship service at Immanuel Sunday.

Government Slaps Ban on DDT; Will Send Notice to Producers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Environmental Protection Agency has announced the start of two actions that would ban DDT use anywhere in the country.

William D. Ruckelshaus, EPA administrator, said Friday notices will go out next week to manufacturers of DDT, canceling federal registrations for use of the pesticide 30 days later.

Also beginning Jan. 18, he said, will be a 60-day review aimed at halting the interstate sale of both DDT and the pesticide 2,4,5-T.

The notifications to cancel registrations may be appealed by manufacturers, who may then continue to sell their products while appeals are processed. But the 60-day review may lead to tougher and more direct "suspension" orders that cannot be appealed.

Suspension orders bar interstate sale, as do the cancellation notices. A ban on interstate sales ultimately would curtail other sales.

"We hope to lay to rest once and for all the question whether DDT presents an imminent hazard to the public," Ruckelshaus said. "Failing proof of this, EPA must decide whether the public benefit from its continued use outweighs the risks involved."

Ruckelshaus' move follows an order Jan. 6 by the U.S. Court of Appeals directing immediate proceedings by EPA to ban all remaining uses of DDT.

The pesticide already had been restricted from use around homes, aquatic areas and tobacco crops in orders issued a year ago. Some of the orders were delayed by appeals.

"We have decided not to request the Justice Department to challenge the court order," the EPA administrator said. "The question is not whether the courts' decisions are right as a matter of law, but rather the public's right to a full and open airing of the controversy surrounding the continued use of DDT and 2,4,5-T."

USDA already has banned some uses of 2,4,5-T.

All interested parties will have a chance to air their views on the pesticides, Ruckelshaus said. The EPA invited comment in written form before Feb. 5, and said the arguments will be made public as they are received.

New Republican Chairman Getting Ready for '72

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert J. Dole, new chairman of the Republican National Committee, says he will set to work immediately to help re-election President Nixon in 1972.

The Kansas senator said winning a new term for Nixon will be his primary role as head man in a new three-way leadership arrangement recommended by Nixon and ratified without dissent Friday.

"Above all, our responsibility is to the President," the 47-year-old senator said. "We serve at his pleasure, we leave at his pleasure."

Thomas B. Evans Jr., 39, of Wilmington, Del., was named co-chairman for administration and organization, and Anne Armstrong of Armstrong, Tex., was appointed co-chairman for special programs.

The titles are new ones. While Dole, as chairman, appointed the two co-chairmen, the selections were ratified by committee vote and they, like Dole, will serve at the pleasure of the national committee.

It was part of a complex arrangement worked out in advance to placate Republicans dissatisfied with the choice of Dole and insist on the selection of a full-time politician to run the national committee.

Evans will fill that role.

Dole said Nixon did not want him as chairman to be an administrator, "and I didn't want to be an administrator. As national chairman, you are the spokesman for your party."

Dole was elected to succeed Rep. Rogers C.B. Morton of Maryland, who is leaving the committee and the House to become Nixon's secretary of the interior.

Morton's parting advice to the national committee: Keep up with the times, provide room in the party for all Americans, let Republicans merely "perfect the art of being second."

The open-party theme was sounded earlier by President

Nixon at the dedication of a new $1.5-million GOP headquarters on Capitol Hill. The building was named for Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Nixon said the late president always urged Republicans to attract support from all segments of American society.

"I would like this building to be the building of the open door," Nixon said. "I would like the Republican party to be the party of the open door, a party open to all people... all faiths, all races, all parties."

The newly elected Dole said he isn't going to be reading any Republican out of the party; it's our hope that we will be attracting people to the party."

Returns From Southeast Asia Visit

Critical Months Ahead... Laird

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, returning from a trip to Southeast Asia, concedes the next few months will be critical for Cambodia but sees nothing to slow the rate of U.S. troop withdrawal.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, Laird told a news conference on his return Friday night, are trying to test the Cambodian government and people "as they prepare to build their military forces to maintain security in their country."

U.S. bombers attack North Vietnam missile sites and the mental makeup of Viet troops will be explored by the defense in the Lt. William Calley court-martial. Stories on page 14.

One reason for Laird's 10-day trip was to assess what has been described as a generally deteriorating situation in Cambodia.

Although the Lon Nol government in Cambodia is facing a critical five to six months, Laird said, he is impressed with progress made by Cambodians in building their armed forces from 30,000 troops nine months ago to the present level of 200,000.

Laird noted results of the U.S. military-aid program are just being felt in Cambodia. But he said he is encouraged by a national determination to defeat the North Vietnamese.

The defense secretary said he is optimistic about the overall situation in Southeast Asia, declaring the tour of Thailand and South Vietnam gave him "strengthened confidence" the United States will be able to end successfully its combat involvement in Vietnam.

He declined to go into details until after he reports in full to President Nixon Monday.

However, Laird said, Nixon's May 1 deadline for lowering the U.S. troop count in Vietnam to 284,000 men will be met or beaten. Nixon will announce further troop withdrawals in mid-April, the defense chief said.

Laird denied renewed speculation Gen. Creighton W. Abrams will be replaced soon as U.S. commander in South Vietnam.

"No changes are contemplated this year as far as Abrams is concerned," Laird said. "The President and I are more than pleased with the excellent leadership this fine, outstanding American is giving in Vietnam."

There were reports earlier Friday that Laird had told friends in Saigon he planned changes in the U.S. military command in Vietnam, leading to speculation about Abrams.

But a Pentagon spokesman said Laird's remarks were aimed at reorganization of the command structure as U.S. forces are withdrawn—not at military leadership.

Deputy Concludes Testimony In County Murder Trial

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON
Trial of two Auburn prison inmates on charges of murder in the killing of a deputy sheriff more than two years ago, will resume Monday at 10 a.m.

before County Judge Raymond J. Mino and jury. Joseph Singer, 60-year-old Westchester County Deputy Sheriff, a key witness for the prosecution at the trial of Charles Culhane, 25, and Gerald McGivern, 26, of the Bronx, was on the witness stand all day Friday. Singer, an eye witness to the killing of the late Deputy Sheriff William Fitzgerald, 63, on Sept. 13, 1968, underwent grueling cross-examination for hours.

Paul Vladimir, counsel for Culhane, and Joshua N. Koplovitz, McGivern's attorney, virtually hurled question after question at the witness who admitted at times he was confused by the barrage of questions he has been asked by counsel.

Singer was with Fitzgerald during the alleged shootout on the Thruway near Plattekill that occurred during an alleged escape attempt by the defendants and a third Auburn prisoner, Robert Bowerman, who also was killed in the shootout.

The prosecution's key witness changed his accounts of the shooting incident under cross-examination, when questioned about his testimony at a preliminary hearing in October, 1968 and before the grand jury.

Singer repeatedly answered when asked questions about the shootings, "I probably said that then, but what I am saying today is what happened." The testimony of Singer was contradictory to his previous version of what happened on the Thruway.

In reply to many questions by defense counsel, Singer shouted his answer. "I probably said that but I didn't mean it that way."

At one point of cross-examination, Singer shouted, "It's an awful ordeal that I've gone through, losing my best buddy."

Singer previously testified that he shot Bowerman and Culhane and he accused McGivern of shooting Fitzgerald during the shootout.

Two JDL Officials Face Sullivan Charges

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two

officials of the militant Jewish Defense League were arrested Friday on federal indictments charging them with buying three rifles under false names.

A third man believed residing in Israel also was indicted. In another development related to the JDL, Rabbi Meir D. Kahane, JDL national director, said he would try to meet with Secretary of State William P. Rogers in Washington Monday to offer a moratorium on the harassment of Soviet officials if the Soviet Union permits a token exodus of Russian Jews to Israel.

Kahane, who scheduled another daylong rally in front of the Soviet Mission to the United Nations Sunday, has vowed to harass Russian diplomats and their families in retaliation for the Soviet oppression of Russian Jewry.

Arrested Friday were Sandor Sternberg, 20, of Brooklyn, director of defense on the JDL national board and chief instructor of the league's karate school in Manhattan, and David Sommer, 32, of Queens, a public school accounting teacher, a JDL board member and director of a league camp in Liberty, N.Y.

Also indicted was Aaron Blumenthal, 22, of Philadelphia, who was believed living in Israel. He was described as an associate of JDL members but not a member of the organization.

Barclay Heights Dissatisfaction On Snow Job

SAUGERTIES
A delegation of residents of the Barclay Heights area attended Thursday night's Saugerties Town Board meeting to express their dissatisfaction with the snowplowing done by a contractor hired by the town.

More than 40 attended the session in the town hall. Two spokesmen for the group said it would appear that A. J. Scarselli, who has the snow removal contract for the town has insufficient equipment to handle the job. There were also complaints that the Scarselli firm did not get on the job soon enough during the heavy snowfall before Christmas and became bogged down when the snow got too deep.

Supervisor A. Michael Schovel said that according to the contract the operator must have a two-ton truck and two small four-wheel drive vehicles with snowplows and a sander. He said that the superintendent of highways checked to see if the contractor had the equipment before the agreement was signed. The supervisor said the Town Board knew about the condition and it was being investigated.

In the matter of appointing two members to the Town Planning Board, members of the Town Board will meet with the planners Tuesday night. Timothy Murphy, representing the Saugerties Athletic Association submitted a request to the board for financial support from the town's recreation program funds.

Ice Skating Note

SAUGERTIES
Commissioner of Parks and Playgrounds Gregory M. Muly advised the Village Board this week that the Main Street skating rink had not been opened because there was not enough frost in the ground to hold the water and there was also a problem of getting the snowplow into the property due to the deep snow.

When weather conditions are more favorable, the rink site will be flooded and cleared of snow and skating will be permitted, he said.

LBJ Pneumonia; Note No Change

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, hospitalized since Wednesday with mild pneumonia, showed no improvement today but was reported resting comfortably.

"There is no change in his condition," a spokesman at Brooke Army Medical Center said.

Johnson, 62, had a cold at his last public appearance Monday when he accompanied his wife

Lady Bird, who was sworn in as a member of the University of Texas Board of Regents.

He "has a mild case of viral pneumonia. His overall progress has been satisfactory," said Lt. Col. Robert L. North, chief doctor at the Army hospital, in a statement Friday.

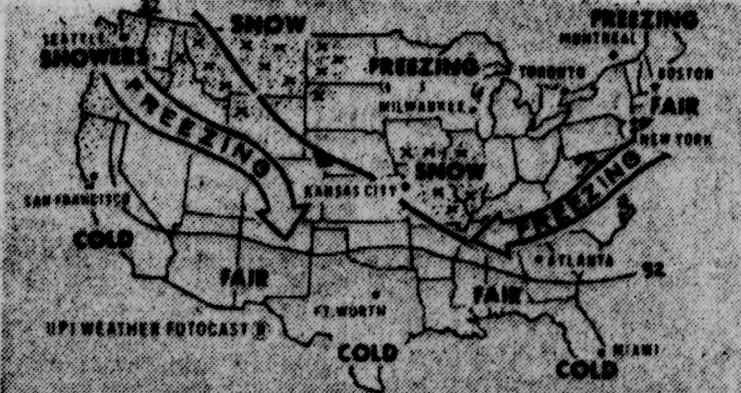

Doctors have not said how long they think Johnson will be hospitalized.

The 36th U.S. president was flown to the hospital Wednesday night from his LBJ Ranch 60 miles away.

Judge Adjourns UCCC Teachers Contempt Case

KINGSTON

The case against eight Ulster County Community College teachers in connection with possible contempt of court proceedings for refusing to end a work stoppage at the Stone Ridge Campus in November was adjourned to Feb. 1, when the matter came up before Supreme Court Justice Louis G. Bruhn.

Justice Bruhn adjourned the case to Feb. 1 to avoid it coming up in the middle of the current session of Supreme Court.

The teachers are required to answer show cause orders why they should not be held in contempt of court for refusing to end their work stoppage in mid-November. Affidavits from both sides were submitted before the deadline date of Jan. 8.

Memoriam

In loving memory of our mother, Mary Boughton, who passed away January 17, 1964.

God made lots of beautiful things
Sunsets and roses and trees
Birds and starlight and loyal friends.

And after He made all these He gave the earth a gift more fair
More loving and more true
Of all His gifts, the one most rare

A Mother as dear as you.

Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of my dear husband and our father, Raymond Cole, who passed away 10 years ago today, January 17, 1961.

He wished no one a last farewell,
Nor even said good bye.
He was gone before we knew it,
And only God knows why.

His busy hands are resting now,
His work on earth is done.
His worries are all over,
His heavenly crown is won.

It only takes a little space to write how much we miss him.
It will take the rest of our lives
To forget the day we lost him.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Al Onofrio, regarded as a genius at moulding football defenses, was given the head coaching job at Missouri at a salary of $24,000 a year.

Length of the contract was not announced.

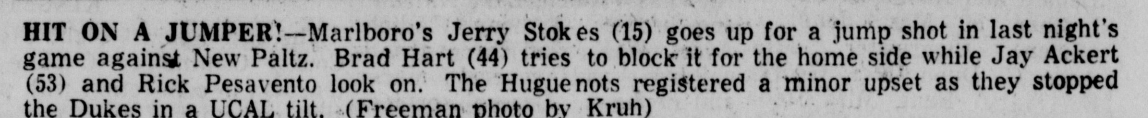

Onofrio, 49, succeeds Dan Devine, who Thursday was named general manager and coach of the National Football League Green Bay Packers.

The appointment of Onofrio Friday came only 24 hours after Devine ended 13 years as boss at Missouri for what he regards as a "fine challenge and fine opportunity" with the Packers.

The Larger Issue

CHARLES J. TIANO

No matter how hard you try to cut through the haze of circumstances surrounding the Herman Simon case, the atmosphere at Kingston High School, the faint odor of recruiting pollutes the scene.

School officials, including athletic director Bill Hurley and basketball coach Mike Rienzo, have vigorously denied that any blandishments were ever directed by them toward the now 16-year-old New York City lad. They were not in any way involved in the chain of events that transferred Simon from the sidewalks of New York to our quaint Colonial city.

The KHS administration assured The Daily Freeman that Herman is first and foremost a student and will have to maintain good academic standing to remain in athletics at Kingston High.

THE LARGER QUESTION of how a truly talented 15-year-old New York basketball player wound up in Kingston, without family, is one that has not been fully explained to the satisfaction of a large number of Kingston residents and Kingston High School supporters. Despite an intensive investigation by The Daily Freeman the whole episode remains shrouded in doubt — the kind of doubt that will linger so long as Herman Simon is part of the Kingston scene.

Mike Perry, the highly successful basketball coach at Ulster County Community College, is regarded in many quarters as the person responsible for bringing Simon to Kingston. Perry, a resolute, determined kind of person, is well aware of the accusations, but categorically denies the implication of recruiting.

As far as Simon's sudden appearance in Kingston is concerned, Perry insists that he just wanted to help the boy get an education.

"I did approach Herman about college," Perry admitted to our scholarly staffer, Mort Laffin. "However," Perry explained, "when he told me he was still a high school student, I realized that by the time he was ready for college, his ability probably would be so great it would get him into a bigger school, a four-year college. My only interest in Herman was in trying to make sure that he got a high school education and that his talents didn't go to waste."

THE RECORD should be set straight on one crucial point in this highly complicated case — Herman Simon is not now and never has been a child welfare case in Ulster County. It is also important to remember that Simon himself has consistently acknowledged that fact and has been extremely anxious to get that point across to the public.

County Welfare Commissioner Joseph P. Fitzsimmons said that a petition in behalf of Simon was presented to his office, but a subsequent, routine investigation revealed that Simon was not eligible for child welfare.

Commissioner Fitzsimmons' statement raises another intriguing question in the minds of many persons. If Simon was not eligible as a welfare case, with whom would he reside in Kingston and who would support him?

We heard talk that a "group of people" had been formed to "sponsor" Simon. If that report were true, we would then have on our hands a bit of blatant recruiting.

This lead was investigated fully and, in all fairness to the lad, we were not able to substantiate the report.

WHEN SIMON'S NAME first got into circulation in the city, he was burning up the YMCA autumn basketball league. The word got around that Simon was headed for Kingston High School in September.

Long before Coach Mike Rienzo assembled his basketball candidates, we were approached by some people who said they were disturbed by reports that Simon had been recruited from New York specifically to play basketball in Kingston.

Basically, their objections were these — high school basketball should be for boys who are bona fide residents of the county and (2) bringing in an outsider shuts out a local boy. They pressured us to bring the situation to the public's attention.

They challenged Simon's eligibility to play on the grounds that he was not a bona fide resident of the county. They insisted that it was a case of recruiting — pure and simple and should be exposed.

THE STATE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT however, took a different tack when it ruled that Simon was in fact eligible to play at Kingston High under the little known "independent domicile" rule.

Frankly, we don't like the rule. It says, in effect, that any boy may leave his home and set up independent residency anywhere in the state and be eligible to compete in varsity athletics.

Unless there are overwhelming and compelling circumstances which might force a boy to do this, we think it's a very bad rule. Lacking these circumstances, we feel that any rule which permits a boy to leave home and go seek his athletic fortunes in another city is, we repeat, a bad rule and should be abolished.

A normal transfer from one city to another when a boy's family moves is one thing. Leaving home to compete in sports somewhere else is something else again.

NO MATTER how it is explained, the public will never fully accept it and there will always remain a gnawing doubt. It's another classic example of the old maxim that the explanation never quite catches up with the accusation.

The whole incident is regrettable. Simon's eligibility is as valid as the morning sun, but we wish the entire episode had never happened. These remarks are in no manner to be interpreted as a reflection on Herman Simon, who is a nice young man. After all, somebody had to tell a bright 15-year-old about the wonders of Kingston and he should not be held responsible for what happened after that.

We hope the episode is never repeated. And the State Education Department please, notwithstanding, we still like the idea of local basketball for local boys.

Three Share Crosby Lead

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — They aren't setting any records in the 1971 Bing Crosby golf tournament but at the midway point it's proving to be a better old man's event than one for the young guard.

Except for 28-year-old Tom Shaw and 27-year-old Bob Murphy that is.

Oldsters Howie Johnson and Paul Harney and Shaw shared the lead at the halfway mark today, each with five-under-par scores of 139.

A stroke behind them were Murphy, Bobby Nichols and Arnold Palmer. And three more strokes away were Miller Barber, Chuck Courtney, George Archer and Dave Eichelberger.

Johnson, who won $68,500 on the tour last year, just beat the dusk with a two-under-par 70 Friday that gave him a share of the lead with Shaw and Harney.

Harney Shoots 68
Harney, winner of $40,316 in 1970, shot a four-under 68 in the second round while Shaw, scrambling as usual, had a one-under 71 on a card that included six birdies and five bogies.

Palmer, harking back to palmer days when his trademark was a charge down the stretch, ran off four consecutive birdies on the back nine that gave him a four under 68, which with a little more putting luck could easily have been a 64.

Nichols, who shared the first round lead with Shaw and Terry Dill, shot an even-par 72 and Murphy bagged a three-under 69 that left them at four-under 140 with Palmer, Barber had a 69, Courtney a

Seals Squad Zaps Rangers

OAKLAND (AP) — Six games were scheduled in the National Hockey League tonight but the California Golden Seals, who kept the New York Rangers from moving into first place in the East Division, rested.

The Seals handed the Rangers their first loss in six games, zapping them 3-1 in the Oakland Arena Friday. It was the night's only league action.

The game evened the series between the two teams at 2-2. But California, still last in the West, moved within a point of sixth place Los Angeles.

New York, also idle Saturday, remained a point behind Boston. Games tonight had Los Angeles at Toronto; Philadelphia at Detroit; Buffalo at Minnesota; Pittsburgh at Vancouver; and Chicago at St. Louis.

Friday night with a slowdown before John Wooden's Bruins pulled out a 58-53 victory. And Boyd isn't quite sure what's in store tonight after his team swept to its 13th victory without a loss, 90-66, over California.

Stanford took only 16 shots in the first half against UCLA and the Bruins capitalized on errors to take a 29-17 halftime lead. But Claude Terry connected on five straight baskets in the opening moments of the second half to cut the lead to 34-31 with 12 minutes to go.

Sidney Wicks, high for UCLA with 19 points, scored with 40 seconds left to give UCLA a 48-49 lead and baskets by Terry and Chuck Moore reduced that to 58-53 at the buzzer. Terry's 22 points were high in the game.

Joe Mackey had 17 points and Joe Layton added 15 as sharp-shooting Southern Cal romped past California. The Trojans hit 51.6 per cent of their shots, pulled away to a 43-29 lead at the half and were never in trouble after that.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 16, 1971

Back to New Deal Deficits

The 40-year-old New Deal financing program has been discredited as bad economics because it puts the onus of national growth on future generations, but the alternative of higher taxes is politically unacceptable, so the future generations will be saddled with the costs, whether they like it or not. That is the essence of the philosophy which has been forced upon President Nixon at midterm, as he expounded it in his latest television interview, before going out to the Western White House to work on his State of the Union Message. In it he will spell out his shift of plans to the Congress and the nation.

With his top priority for 1971 to reduce unemployment and inflation, Nixon has come to the conclusion that the economy must be built around the unbalanced budget with no new taxes. He will present to the House Ways and Means Committee, "very full plate" of welfare reform, revenue sharing with the states and cities and a comprehensive health care program, all of which are expensive, and all of which will depress the budget.

The President emphasized his expansionary budget, his deficit budget, as if to underline the complete turnaround he has taken from his economic philosophy upon taking office two years ago, when a balanced budget was his aim, and holding the line his goal. The inflationary trend was too great, and fiscal and monetary measures did not stem inflation fast enough, so he has embraced the philosophy he had abhorred.

Not to the extent of controlled wages and prices. But deficit budgets will get another trial. The Federal Government, which gets the lion's share of the taxes, will share them with cities and states who are hard pressed. The economy will get a big shove forward. It is not easy to quarrel with a man who is willing to change his own philosophy to serve the nation. We can only hope it works.

Eliminating Bottlenecks

Signing of a bill permitting each of the nation's 11 circuit courts of appeals to have managing clerks who will relieve them of the burdens of running the courts is a first step toward streamlining the work methods of the federal judiciary. Chief Justice Warren E. Burger highlighted the occasion by announcing that he will press for special measures to speed the appeals of persons convicted of crimes in the federal court system.

Burger's aim is to eliminate criminal caseload bottlenecks. This may take two directions. The appeal court might be required to give priority to the appeals of defendants who were denied bail while appealing from their convictions. Or the appellate judges might be required to give priority to appeals by persons who were granted bail despite convictions for violent crimes or their long criminal records.

Burger has pressed for management reforms during his 10 months as chief justice. The court managers would supervise personnel, budget, statistical and other non-judicial business, including press relations. This would leave the judges more time for considering appeals and thereby speed their disposal.

We believe that crime can be cut by speedier justice. Quick conviction and appeal rulings can act as a deterrent to crime, if the defendant knows he will be dealt with promptly. Burger is heading the federal judiciary in that direction.

South Vietnam's Strength

"Once the Americans leave, the South Vietnamese will be able to invade North Vietnam any time they choose," said Gen. Lewis W. Walt, who commanded the U. S. Marines in Vietnam before becoming the assistant commandant of the corp.

Walt added that in another year or year and a half, American forces can safely pull out and leave the war to the South Vietnamese. If he were in Hanoi, he said he would be worrying about the growing military capability of the South Vietnamese armed forces.

The ground forces has been restricted to the south. North Vietnam has not experienced any of the torture and assassination that Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops have visited on the South. Except for bombing raids confined to military targets, which have been halted, "the North" has escaped the damage and rigors of war.

The demilitarized zone has kept American ground action below the dividing line. South Vietnamese will not be bound to respect the border if for no other reason than that North Vietnam has not done so.

What Gen. Walt seems to be saying is that once American troops are all out of Vietnam, the war will explode into a bitter fratricide, with no holds barred. South Vietnam will be ready and able to repay the horrors visited on it's people in the attempt to subjugate them.

Hanoi would do well to make peace while we are there to referee.

'It's Getting to Look More Like a Rabbit Every Day!'

David Lawrence Says Delay in Adopting Wage, Price Control Proves Costly

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has chosen a roundabout way to try to discourage wage increases so that prices, too, can be held down.

At the moment he is expressing disapproval of the Bethlehem Steel Company's intention to raise prices and is talking about allowing more steel imports from Japan and Europe in order to offset the "enormous increase," amounting to as much as 12.5 per cent, announced by the country's second-largest steel producer. But the real purpose of the President undoubtedly is to warn the steelworker's union that, when its contracts with the big companies expire on July 31, the union will not find it practicable to demand a big pay raise, as the companies obviously will not be in a position to grant it without serious losses.

Although failing to intervene in the automobile negotiations to hold down both wages and prices, the Administration at last has come to the conclusion that it now must exercise power in some way to stop the escalation in wages as well as prices.

President Nixon up to the present time has refrained from any direct involvement in the wage-price situation. Just after he was inaugurated in January 1969, he said that he did not believe that "inflation can be effectively controlled by exhorting labor and management and industry to follow certain guidelines." He declared that the responsibility for curbing inflation rested with the Administration and that, by the handling of fiscal and monetary affairs, it hoped to deal with inflation without an increase in unemployment.

But unemployment has climbed to its highest point in many years, and inflation has not been substantially curtailed.

In the automobile industry, the unions have obtained some of the highest wage increases in their history. Prices of '71 models have been boosted three times in all. The final rise came after some of the auto companies had settled with the unions and knew what the exact wage costs were to be.

In the case of steel, however, the administration is entering the arena before the union begins bargaining for higher pay. The price boost announced by the Bethlehem Steel Company is not only to take care of previous rises but is in anticipation of the added costs that will flow from the wage negotiations this coming summer. The steelworkers' union will try to match what the auto unions got in wage hikes and "fringe" benefits. The steel companies claim they cannot afford to make the kind of settlement reached in the automobile industry because they have much lower profits.

The officials of the steelworkers' union, on the other hand, claim that their members have lost ground under the last contract, signed in 1968, and that wage increases obtained then have been "stolen" by inflation. The argument is that the union members should be permitted to catch up on these losses and be protected against further inflation by an unlimited escalator clause adjusted to the cost of living. In other words, as prices rise, wages will rise, too, if such a clause is approved.

President Nixon could have entered the wage-price controversy long before this, and it's not clear why he has refrained. For it was inevitable that big wage boosts would force prices upward. The Administration now is seeking some way to exert pressure on the steel companies and is talking about modifying the present restraints on steel imports from abroad. If these are eased, the influx of foreign-made products would hurt domestic steel manufacturers. They would be penalized for something they themselves cannot control — the demands by a labor union for excessive wage increases, backed up by a threat to strike.

The whole problem illustrates how much valuable time has been lost and how much damage has been done by the failure of the Administration to adopt a policy of rigid control of wages and prices from the time it came into office. Under such a program, while the struggle to curb inflation without large-scale unemployment was going on, certain wage increases and price rises would have been postponed for at least a year or two until the economy reached a point of stability.

Marxist President Allende Tightens Red Grip on Chile

By BRUCE BLOSSAT. NEA Washington Correspondent. WASHINGTON (NEA) — For sheer audacity and speed, the moves of Marxist President Salvador Allende of Chile toward a totalitarian take-over are matchless in recent world history.

No expert with any grasp of Allende's purposes expected anything less than broad new nationalization programs when he took office as president last November. But the sweep of his plan is amazing.

Though his lawyers evidently are still haggling over technicalities and so have delayed presentation of the desired constitutional amendment, the main thrust is becoming steadily clearer.

His proposals would allow the government to seize control of virtually any significant property in Chile. And the developing arrangements to present foreign private owners, like those who still hold a 49 per cent interest in two once wholly American copper mining companies, are utterly ruthless. The companies are going to be robbed blind, and they will have no proper recourse.

Allende's boldness suggests he got an immense mandate from the broad mass of Chilean voters in 1970 — and some outside reaction here and elsewhere has tended to support that notion.

Actually, he got just 36 per cent of the total vote, a very distinct minority figure and 2 per cent less than he managed in 1964 against the then victorious Eduardo Frei.

Moreover, it took a coalition of three parties — Socialist (his own), Communist and Radical — to produce his plurality.

The irony is that, according to fresh reports, the rival moderate and rightist parties which amassed 64 per cent of the 1970 vote have deteriorated rapidly in the short time since Allende's triumph. I have been advised that in next April's countrywide municipal elections the Allende coalition could score 50 per cent or more of the vote.

And it is reported that within Chile, though protest still is heard, opposition to Allende's Marxist maneuvers is not serious.

In many major cabinet posts, especially those involving foreign affairs, economics and the Interior Ministry, either a Socialist or a Communist occupies the No. 1 or No. 2 spot. Interior, of course, governs the police, and names provincial governors and other regional officials.

The unfolding internal security setup poses grave totalitarian threat. Allende's security agency copies Cuba's, and could be backed by his campaign action committees (many led by Reds) which still exist.

Newly announced plans for neighborhood "people's tribunals" are loaded with peril. Three-member courts, with two members chosen in neighborhoods and a third named by the governor (Interior-appointed), would judge and sentence persons charged with "antisocial" crimes. These could include drunkenness, wife-beating, child neglect, disturbing the peace. Children refusing to study could be charged. Clearly, anti-Allende types could be in for a very rough time.

Very likely Allende also is going to speed the pace of agricultural reform. Former President Frei advanced this well in his term, but not fast enough to suit his critics. He left some efficient large holdings alone. Allende seems certain to make no such exceptions. It is also felt he will keep large expropriated holdings in being rather than allow Chilean farmers the earlier option of acquiring small portions after a period of three-to-five years' training in farm practices and management.

Nobody has any idea whether Allende will honor his pledge to let democratic election processes work their way in the tests for Congress in 1973 and president in 1976. Congress may soon approve new "guarantees" to reinforce constitutional assurances on this score. But only time and events will reveal Allende's worn intent.

His proposed great rip up of Chile's property structure also will be couched in a constitutional amendment, for his own strategic reasons. No one is guessing now whether it will win approval, or what he will do if it doesn't.

Jack Anderson Says Mine Workers Union Spent Millions With No Accounting

WASHINGTON — When the Labor Department filed suit 10 months ago to invalidate the 1969 United Mine Workers election and to force the union to keep the legally required financial records, only a few specifics of the government case were made known.

Now, despite the fact that the case is bogged down in legal red tape, much of the information gathered by federal investigators has been quietly put into the record. We have examined it carefully and can now report that the Labor Department has uncovered some of the most extraordinary evidence of corruption and mismanagement by a union hierarchy since the heyday of Jimmy Hoffa.

Consider these charges, all supported by solid evidence: From 1967 through 1969, the International Union spent $7.6 million of the members' money "for which there were no receipts or documents maintained... that could serve to verify and otherwise support these expenditures."

Among the expenditures was $119,321 for so-called "general expenses." These included the medical bills of Union President W. A. "Tony" Boyle and the tab for his foreign travel.

In the union's district offices, separate from the international office, nearly 7,000 expense accounts were submitted by union officials from 1967 through 1969 with no hotel or other bills attached to verify them. Nevertheless, the union paid these bills, which totaled $2.3 million.

In 913 cases, unsupported bills for so-called "organizing expenses" were submitted and paid by the district offices. Total: $749,517 for the 1967-69 period.

The union doesn't dispute the bulk of the government's charges about the lack of record-keeping, but claims records are now being kept.

The union admits, for instance, the medical bills of Boyle and his fellow international officers are paid with the members' money. But it argues, lamely, that this is a "long standing policy." Although most of the election, the members' money was used to buy 5,000 Parker pens emblazoned with these expenses were submitted without documentation, the union contends they were "reasonable."

Concerning the union election, in which Boyle beat back the challenge of the subsequently murdered "Jock" Yablonski, the Labor Department has another set of charges. Here are some of them:

In one local in Illinois, the polls were open for only two hours although half the local's members lived more than 110 miles away.

In a large local in the Pennsylvania anthracite country, where Yablonski had great strength, 36 members were not notified of the election. Of these only 9 voted. As an indication of Yablonski's strength in the area, he carried the local 196-61.

The Boyle campaign organization in District 28, Southwestern Virginia, and in District 30, Eastern Kentucky, operated out of the union district offices with district personnel. Among the jobs the district personnel did was to prepare a smear sheet on Yablonski which was distributed to miners.

In November, weeks before the name of Boyle and his fellow officers. These were handed out to International officials for distribution to the membership. The bill was $9,000.

So slow has been the progress of the suit that it isn't possible yet to determine precisely the union's answers to the government's specific charges dealing with the election. The Boyle administration, however, has repeatedly asserted that the election was clean.

GM on Griddle

Senator Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., has quietly reopened his investigation of General Motors, which skyrocketed Ralph Nader to fame.

At stormy Senate hearings back in 1966, General Motors denied Nader's charges that the Corvair was "unsafe at any speed." Now Nader has accused GM of concealing information from the Ribicoff committee.

To investigate the charge, Ribicoff has twice dispatched two trusted aides, Robert Wager and John Koskinen, to Detroit. A spokesman acknowledged to us only that the Senator is investigating and that "General Motors is cooperating."

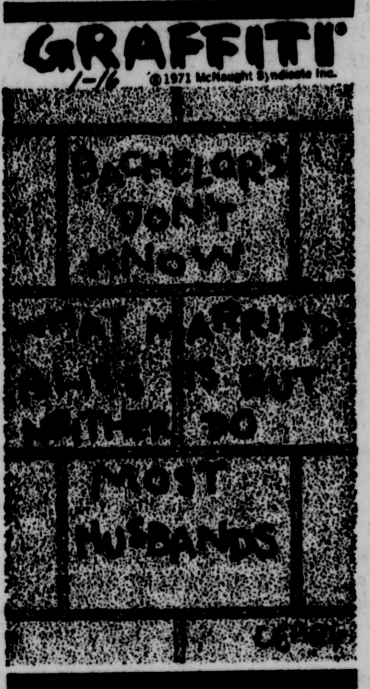

Nader, meanwhile, has obtained supporting statements from three automotive scientists.

Albert Fonda and Dmitry Sergey, both of King of Prussia, Pa., swore to Nader that GM's own tests proved the Corvair should never have gone into production because it was "dangerously prone to rollover." The 1963 Corvair, they said, flipped in a hard right turn at 28 miles an hour. They estimated it would cost GM $12 million to make safe the 600,000 Corvairs still on the road.

In contrast, the engineers computed that losses of earnings to those seriously injured or killed in Corvair rollovers will be $175 million. This doesn't count medical expenses and property damages.

Ralph Smith, of Hathboro, Pa., another automotive scientist, said GM's recall cost per Corvair would be $10 to $15 plus front-end alignment and installation.

GM, in a hot statement about Nader's new charges, declared: "GM has not misrepresented the Corvair to the Senate." The company accuses him of conducting a "personal vendetta."

Henry J. Taylor Says U.S. to Meet Red Sub Threat

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird is putting an all-out push against the Soviet swimming bear's predominance described in this column December 16. His push could eventually cost $9 billion. But is there any choice in the face of the threatening Soviet escalation?

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, long packed by Chairman J. William Fulbright to get support for himself, is constantly at war with the President — any and every President since John F. Kennedy failed to appoint Fulbright Secretary of State. In contrast, the Senate Armed Services Committee nearly always is on the side of a President and the defense establishment. This committee is giving Mr. Laird absolute support.

Mr. Laird is out to pull the teeth of the Soviet nuclear missile-launching submarines.

The Kremlin now has at least 14 Polaris-type missile subs in worldwide operation and 15 more under construction. The Soviet land-based missile inventory is so immense that the reported "tapering off" in construction may or may not be true. But the Central Intelligence Agency is certain there's no slowdown in Soviet missile-submarine construction, and that, in fact, it is dramatically increasing.

On July 31, 1964, our Navy staged what is known in the Navy as its top-secret Operation Orbit. The nuclear-powered USS Enterprise, Long Beach and Bainbridge completely circled the globe in 65 days without logistic support or, of course, refueling. Analysts in the Navy's Bureau of Ships found that the fighting-time potential of the three vessels increased 42 per cent. Operation Orbit had its equivalent in the USS Nautilus, the world's first nuclear submarine. This pioneered the Polaris missile. We now have 41 Polaris-type submarines. But Mr. Laird told the Senate Armed Services Committee that the Soviet swimming bear "will match or surpass our Polaris fleet by early 1974."

Our Navy's Poseidon missile is a difficult adaptation of the land-based MIRV, which contains multiple warheads and allows one missile launcher and its rocket to attack several targets at the same time. There will be 16 H-bomb Poseidons aboard each sub with at least 10 warheads that can be targeted separately. Our Navy is already converting 31 Polaris-type subs to carry Poseidons. This will greatly expand their ability to penetrate enemy missile defenses.

The first two nuclear submarines chosen for Poseidon conversion are the James Madison and Daniel Boone. These have been on test runs throughout the oceans ("very successfully," he stated) since midsummer. Two more are now ready and six more are in converting shipyards.

Conversion time? It is taking about 14 months each. Cost? It will approach $100 million each.

But, driven by the Soviet escalation, Mr. Laird's added push carries a considerably bigger defense wallop as a deterrent to war. He urged a new, fast 360-foot submarine, called within the Navy's development section the class 688. Loaded with secret capabilities, it has been designed under top-security wraps to hunt and, in war, destroy enemy missile and attack submarines.

Most of the world is unknown ocean bottoms. The oceans average 12,000 feet deep. Topside, the amazing craft have a pinched profile like the face of an eel and they can fight at great depths. The 688's capability statistics are nearly incredible — a true Naval breakthrough.

Behind the scenes, Mr. Laird has asked for from 17 to 25 of these new defense arms. Moreover, he has the support of persuasive Vice Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, chief of the Atomic Energy Commission's naval reactor division.

Fiercely Admiral Rickover, who has a talent for organization and an iron will, is on record as saying: "It took me four years to get nuclear submarines into the building program. It often takes longer to fight for approval of a project than to develop and build it." He is too used to success to be an accommodator.

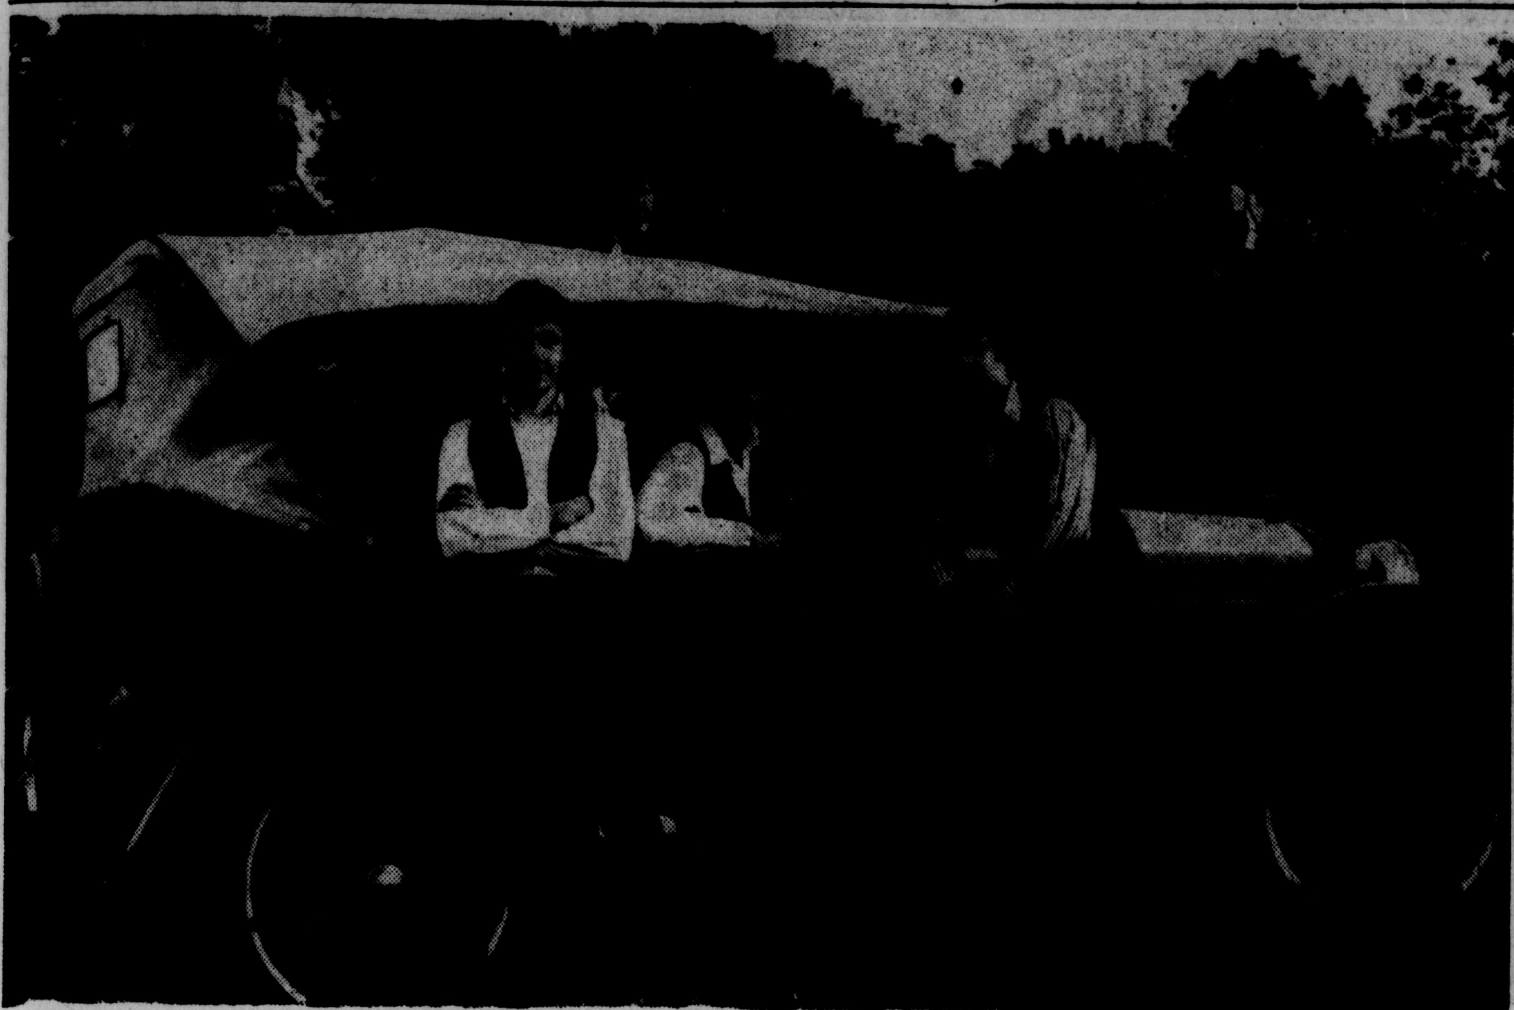

Mr. Laird got approval for the construction of seven 688s and procurement of material for five more. Apparently each will cost — including government-furnished equipment such as the nuclear reactor — between $165 million and $180 million.

We cannot change with the changed conditions. We must change ahead of them. If we meet the Soviet capability as long as necessary, the Soviet won't love us — but the Soviet will go on living with us. And, tragically, that's what we must somehow learn to call "peace."

BERRY'S WORLD

"... Recovery will be stronger in the first half... the bear market has ended — a bull market is not yet in sight... I see the balance of payments worsening, but a major dollar crisis still seems unlikely..."

NEW LONDON BLUES — Popular Hurley based group, New London Blues, will play for dancing tonight at Congregation Ahavath Israel as part of the festivities planned by the Kingston Jewish Community Council for Mid-Hudson area teens. The dance will be at 9 p. m. following basketball games starting 7:30 p. m. at the municipal auditorium. Members of the group are (L-R) Steve Rust, Wayne Waligurski, John Burgess and Mark Rust.

Events Offer Variety

The New London Blues will be playing tonight but there is nothing blue about the occasion.

The Kingston Jewish Community Council is sponsoring a basketball game and dance to-night with Mid-Hudson area young people participating in the ever-popular annual event.

The basketball game will begin 7 p. m. at the Municipal Auditorium and will feature the Jewish Council varsity versus the Monticello varsity. The second game will feature the Poughkeepsie varsity pitted against the Newburgh varsity.

Following the game, a dance will be held at Congregation Ahavath Israel.

The dance will begin at 9 p. m. and that is where the New London Blues come in with their own brand of sound. Refreshments will be served.

Members of the New London Blues are Steve Rust, Wayne Waligurski, John Burgess and Mark Rust. They have had a busy fall season, playing a number of dance and resort dates in addition to taking first place in the Hurley Talent Show. The game and dance feature is sponsored for ninth to 12th graders by the Kingston Jewish Community Council, a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Dance plans are being made by several other organizations in Kingston and throughout the county.

The Future Business Leaders of America, Kingston High School Chapter, will present a dance next Saturday from 7:30 to 11:30 p. m. at the Kate Walton Field House.

Students from area junior high schools are invited to attend the Jan. 23 activity. Music will be by W.S.M.F., a local band.

Fire and Ice will combine for a Friday night dance in Saugerties. Dubbed the Icicle Hop, the event will be held at the parish hall of the Saugerties Reformed Church.

Dancing from 7 to 9:30 p. m. will be to music of the band known as Fyre, guaranteed to melt those icicles. Refreshments will be sold and tickets will be available at the door.

The hop is sponsored by the Junior High Youth Fellowship of the church and proceeds will be used for organization projects. All youth of the community may attend.

Next Saturday marks the reopening of the Exodus Coffee House at the Woodstock Reformed Church. The new season will get underway at 8:15 p. m.

Winter Olympics on a local scale are planned for next Saturday by the Indian Drum and Bugle Corps. The fun in the snow day will be held at Wilkwyck Country Club.

Competitions will include categories not on most Olympic schedules. There will be skating and skiing of course. Tobogganing will be the Indians answer to bobsledding and a snow man making contest will be novelty event.

Recreational winter sports just for fun will be included on the agenda.

An indoor skating party is planned by the Indians for Feb. 11. They will meet at Spring Lake Roller Rink at 7:30 p. m.

Indoors or out, winter takes on a special glow in the social sphere. Area teenagers can not lack for places to go and things to do even though the winds do blow and there is snow.

Both Indian Corps Seeking Recruits

Recruitment banners are up for both the Troop 12 Indians Drum and Bugle Corps and the senior Kingston Indians. Also there is a promise of an exciting season for both organizations within the coming year.

Troop 12 B.S.A. Indians Drum and Bugle Corps Director Burt Ellis announced that the Corps again would be expanded. There are now 25 new openings in the bugle section, three in the drum line, and up to 18 new boys will be accepted in the color guard.

It should be mentioned, that while the Indians are seeking experienced horn players and drummers, those unexperienced that wish to join will be accepted, and taught to play any instrument that they may be issued.

Any boy can afford to be a member, as there is no charge for instruction, instruments, uniforms, or transportation on Corps trips. To be qualified for membership in the Troop 12 Indians, a boy must be between the ages of 8 and 14, and willing to register as a Cub or Boy Scout in the pack or troop of his choice.

For further details, or if interested in joining, boys should attend a rehearsal within the next four weeks, accompanied by at least one of his parents. Rehearsals are on Mondays, between 6:30 and 9:00 p. m. at Bethany Hall in the Old Dutch Church, 272 Wall Street.

The Kingston Indians have steadily increased its membership over the past year, and is now 97 strong.

With four officers, 42 buglers, a percussion line of 18, and a color guard of 33, the senior Indians now have more members than any time in its long and colorful history, according to director, Ralph Shapiro. The '71 season will see the most powerful Indians ever, and the new musical arrangements are among the most beautiful attempted by any corps. The drum line will be coming out with a first in the drum corps world, and therefore must remain secret until the Corps first appearance.

Young men and women between 14 and 20 years old are still being accepted, but membership will close upon reaching a total of 108. At least six of the 11 openings will be made in the horn line.

The Corps expects to make at least 24 appearances this summer, with possibly nine in the Wisconsin and Michigan areas. Teeners in the Hudson Valley interested in joining this most exciting youth group, should attend a Sunday rehearsal at Bethany Hall between 2 and 3:30 p. m.

TEEN SCENE The Gould Rush

By LEI

No matter what the lower part of his face is doing, his eyes look sad. He's flabby, furry, and chronically rumped. Paula Prentiss said he was very easy to love, and director Jack Brodsky called him "the Jewish Richard Burton." When he was told about the latter, he replied, "No I'm the Jewish Elliott Gould."

Elliott Gould is indeed himself, but it has taken 32 years (thus far) for him to decide just who "himself" is. He was Elliott Goldenstein when he was born in Brooklyn in 1938. An only child, he was subjected to almost traditional overprotection. His name became Gould when his mother enrolled him in elocution classes at an acting school for children, in the hopes it would help him relax. The classes did nothing appreciable for either his relaxation or his elocution, but did start him on a roller-coaster-acting career that might be ready to leave the tracks and go into orbit.

As a child actor, Gould became the darling of the Borsht Belt, and a popular child model. He was particularly known for his skill with dialects. At the Woodstock Playhouse once took the second lead in a Broadway tryout, "Some Little Honor." Unfortunately, there are very few 18-year-old child actors, so after 10 years his career sagged. He appeared in the chorus on a short-lived Broadway musical "Rumple," and then, figuratively, stepped down an elevator shaft.

For several years he was engaged in such interesting pursuits as pawning his parents' jewelry to pay gambling debts, operating several remarkably non-lucrative rackets, cleaning carpets, and operating elevators on the night shift. He preferred acting, and finally got a few more bookings in musical chorus lines. He auditioned for the leading male understudy in a Broadway musical, "I Can Get It For You Wholesale." He didn't get the understudy job—he was chosen for the lead itself, instead!

A girl from his native Brooklyn with a small part stole the show—and the leading male. Slightly over a year later, Elliott Gould married Barbra Streisand. The leading man's career took off like a ton of turnips, while his wife, the bit player, seemingly couldn't escape stardom if she tried. Elliott Gould, born Elliott Goldenstein, had become in effect, Elliott Streisand. From a smothering family background, he had jumped straight into a dominated marriage. His weekly defined personality was completely subdued by his flamboyant wife.

Only after he and Barbra separated did Elliott's acting gain momentum. He and Barbra are still in love, both of them devoted to their son, Jason. At present, Elliott has a regular companion, an 18-year-old girl, who significantly, has no interest in acting.

When Elliott's career took its new upswing, it was films, not the stage, that displayed his talents. The anti-hero was the new trend, and even if Gould was a little better looking than Dustin Hoffman and slightly more streamlined than Michael Pollard, he made up for it with his outstanding inadequacy. Not that he was inadequate, or that he made an effort to act inadequate; he had an uncanny ability to project his own inadequacy complexes. While he is physically a tall man, over 6-feet-3, characters he portrays all become "the little man." Only recently did Gould break the lifelong habit of slouching; he used to watch the ground to avoid stepping on "anything crawling," — to escape tripping over things.

Elliott has a chameleon-like ability to switch from broad comedy to satire to whimsy, to serious business in his acting. The six or seven films in which he is currently appearing range from middle-class low-brow hi-jinks to semi-serious social commentary. At present he is set to work on "The Touch," directed by brooding, symbolic director Ingmar Bergman, and also a filmed version (which he hopes to direct) of the non-fiction best-seller, "Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Sex But Were Afraid To Ask."

Physically, to, he can perform sleight-of-face, from the bland creamcheese face of "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice" to the somehow menacing full beard and long hair he has grown for his current part. His increased confidence shows in his face and manner—his gaze is more direct, his inadequacy more adequate.

That, in fact, may be the biggest block to his future success. With over a dozen films soon to be in release, he risks overexposure—there is a limit to his originality! As for the first time, he faces success, Gould may become a hero instead of an anti-hero. Richard Burton may be called "the Welsh Elliott Gould," and Barbra may be remembered as "that singer who was married to Elliott Gould."

However, perhaps he will continue to have his lucky bad fortune—and trip as he goes up to get his two Oscars.

American Experience Tours for Teenagers

NEW YORK (UPI)—How many American families do you think would plunk down $1,099 plus taxes this year for a high school student's vacation?

A company in Boston is betting there will be at least 4,000 willing to pay that much this summer in spite of the recession.

While AITS, Inc., whose primary business is organizing de luxe convention tours for business and professional groups, has worked up an unusual de luxe "American Experience" tour deal for the teenager, it's not alone in the business. The tour keeps American youth in touch with yesterday's history.

Other educational travel agencies sell vacation tours for college and high school students costing several hundred dollars. Most report advance bookings are good in spite of generally hard economic conditions.

The AITS tour is sold simultaneously in 20 departure cities. As the 45-day tour is planned, it will have to sell most of the planned 4,000 seats in chartered buses to make a profit. The company feels sure it will.

The American Experience tour is being sold as a cram course in American history, geography, economics, sociology and ecology.

Each bus will have its own social science teacher, who will spend part of the time on the road conducting classes and lecturing. Most of the educational work, however, will be done "on site" at the stops.

The tour will be great circle of the country from Boston to San Francisco, then back via the southern route through New Orleans. All the overnight stops will be on college campuses at leading institutions. There will be some short side trips into Canada and Mexico. Greyhound Co. will handle the actual travel.

The students will get a chance to study production control at General Motors plants in Detroit, talk with congressmen in Washington, see problem areas of Appalachia at first hand and visit many historical sites.

YOUTH IN RALLY — Young people of the Kingston Jewish Community Council do their bit at the recent Soviet Jewry rally at Congregation Ahavath Israel. Discussing protest placards are (L-R) Amie Gellen, Robert Eldridge, David Levine, David Zimet and John J. Eldridge. The sign was designed by Michael Breuer whose brother Lawrence is in Israel spending a year working on a kibbutz. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Youth in the News—New Honors

Student achievements figure in Youth in the News, this week with word of graduation, straight A grades and newly learned skills.

Margaret L. Hazenbush, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Hazenbush of Kingston, New York, was graduated from George Williams College, Downers Grove, Ill. at its winter commencement.

She received her bachelor of science degree in group work and recreation.

In addition to her graduation from George Williams, she also was graduated from Kingston High School.

Another Ulster County student studying in Illinois achieved straight A's for the fall semester and earned a high spot on the dean's list.

John M. Schleede of 80 Yarmouth Street, Kingston, was cited for scholastic achievement at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale. He maintained a 5.0 average for the fall term.

Closer to home a group of Highland High School students have mastered a new skill and join a growing list of equipment operators.

In order to qualify as audio visual equipment operators, students had to successfully complete a period of instruction and pass a practical test.

Those who recently completed these requirements are Mary Ellen Busick, Richard Panzera, Richard Brooks, Dominick DeMetro, Al Marcello, David Diesing.

Also, Edward Tesman, Alison

Richter, Andrew Paccions, and Steven Dolce.

Announcement was made by Mario Ruggeri, AV director at Highland High School.

Approximately 40 students at the school have been certified as AV operators prior to the recent class.

A familiar name returned to Youth in the News this week with Francis Albertini taking first place in the Ulster County American Legion Oratorical Contest. The John A. Coleman High School senior last year spoke his way through county, district and zone competitions to miss out on the state title by only a half point. This year he will have an opportunity to recoup that hair splitting loss.

Youth in the News says good luck and good voice.

The Quilting Picture

Quilting has come a long way since grandmother was a girl, when quilting meant cotton batting sandwiched between two layers of cotton or silk. Now, synthetics have taken over the quilting picture. Filling material of polyester fibres is exceptionally springs, light-weight, dust-free, hypo-allergenic, moth and mildew-resistant, completely washable, and quick drying. Another fiber used in batting with the same qualities is acetate.

These fills are used in quilted items such as sleeping bags, baby wear, winter underwear, comforters, bedspreads, pillows, mattresses, bathmats, snowsuits, and robes. Another approach to layered winter materials is a polyester foam, thickly covered with a nylon flocking. Used in children's sleepers, it offers insulated warmth without weight. And another plus for such items is that they will retain their fluff and insulated efficiency through many launderings.

We invite your personal inspection of our spring and summer collections.

Schools, Theatres Build Together to Save Costs

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Schools and theatres might join forces to solve the problems of high-cost construction and maintenance, giving a building fulltime use rather than long darkened periods, says Ann T. Roberts of Hartford, Conn. She has just made such a cooperative venture possible by providing a grant of $1.5 million from a foundation established in their names by her late husband, Edward, the son of a former governor of Connecticut.

Students of Kingswood School in West Hartford which has just merged with the Oxford school, and a 38-year-old near-professional 130-member theatre group, The Mark Twain Masquers, will share a new science and arts building for their respective interests. Ground was recently broken for the building which is estimated to cost about $2.5 million dollars, part of which is being raised by the school.

"Building the theatre in a school solves not only the problem of much needed arts and science space for students; but the Masquers will have a home and they will be able to draw on juvenile talent for plays. The drama department students and the theatre group will cooperate, and scholarships will be awarded to drama students to study at the theatre's work shop."

In addition, young people can aid in decorating scenery and learn first-hand technical aspects of theatre production. The thespians have chosen a "topnotch managing director," she points out, the well-known actor, director and producer of off-Broadway plays, David Young. The group pays him $15,000 a year.

Students of the arts will find new up-to-date classrooms, labs and areas for graphics and design, painting, drawing, sculpture, ceramics and music studies. The Edward C. and Ann T. Roberts Science and Arts Building, as it is to be called, will make possible a professional-style 600-seat auditorium with large proscenium stage facilities. There will be a scene shop, theatre costume store room, two dressing rooms and a green room for actors adjacent to the stage. The thespians will use the theatre area for 30 weeks of the year. In addition, the building may be used as a community arts center.

The foundation was established as a charitable, educational and cultural foundation by Roberts. One of its main purposes was to find a permanent home for the theatre group, with whom the two had sentimental attachments. It was there that 51-year-old Roberts, a bachelor, met Ann, a widow. Six months later, they were married and the two played together in many of the theatre group's offerings. Roberts, an alumnus of Yale University, had been a member of the glee club and enjoyed playing the cello and oboe.

At 75, Ann Roberts, a vivacious, petite woman known to her friends as "Sunny" still plays in the shows and is about to undertake her 27th role. She has been on their board of directors for 26 years. She likes to play roles made famous by the late Josephine Hull-Harvey Arsenic and Old Lace, etc. — whose style she can emulate. Movie and television star Peter Falk was a member of the theatre group, she says. The late Ed Begeley acted with them.

Though the ground breaking has barely begun, Mrs. Roberts has enthusiastically purchased for the theatre two paintings by John Wopf that she saw on exhibit at the Whale Gallery in Nantucket, where she has a small Cape Cod summer home. One painting is particularly appropriate, showing a barefoot young man in opera clothes sitting at a candle-lit long dinner table set in a lush green garden.

Dispensing the foundation's funds for one or another charities takes a great deal of her time.

She is childless and is particularly happy that the foundation can do something for young people that furthers their education in the arts and the theatre in particular.

Y-Wives Plan Special Program On Interior Decorating Trends

A program of special interest to all women in the community will be sponsored by Y-Wives at the YWCA, Clinton Avenue, on Thursday, Jan. 21 at 8 p.m. Samuel Cerasaro, well-known interior designer, will be guest speaker on the topic "Design for Living." Mr. Cerasaro will discuss the latest trends in interior decorating as well as explaining how to combine furniture one has with new pieces. At present, Mr. Cerasaro, a Woodstock resident, is employed with Modernity. Previous to coming to Kingston, he had his own designing shop in New York City. He is a graduate of the New York School of Interior Design and also studied in Europe on a National Society of Interior Designers' Award. Mr. Cerasaro's experience both here and abroad includes residential and commercial designing. Following his talk, Mr. Cerasaro will answer questions from the audience pertaining to interior design and related topics.

All YWCA members are invited to attend without charge. A nominal fee will be collected for non-members. Free refreshments will be served by Y-Wives. Hostesses for the evening are the Mmes. William Schreiber, chairman, assisted by Donald Boyce, Robert McCullough, Ronald O'Neil and Robert Slover.

At the last meeting of Y-Wives on January 7, the annual auction was conducted by Mrs. Stanley Tentnowski, Mrs. Herbert Reuner, Mrs. Thomas Palmer and Mrs. Donald Boyce. A camera was recently purchased to keep a photographic record of the club's activities and the project is in charge of Mrs. Robert E. Murrar. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Carl Nordstrom, Mrs. Francis Short and Mrs. Murrar.

Mrs. Fred A. Schoonmaker, president, thanked the following members for their assistance at the YWCA

Carousel in December, the Mmes. Frederick Burnett, Wm. Barnes, Paul Giannuzzi and Stanley Tentnowski.

The YWCA is a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Dear Abby

Special for All GI's

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y.
News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I arrived at Osan Base two weeks ago. As part of my orientation, I attended a briefing by the Base Chaplain. I was given a folder, and inside it was the enclosed articles from your column.

You would be doing these men and the country a great service if you would publish it again.

Good health to you and yours!
JOHN D. HERBERT (MAJOR)

Here it is:
"I thought you might like a copy of a letter written to Dear Abby and her reply. I suggest that you fold it up and put it in your billfold. Every time you are tempted to stray, take it out and read it. It may provide that little extra incentive to say 'no' again and perhaps to pray."

DEAR ABBY: My problem is one that bothers thousands of other G.I.'s so I hope you will print your answer because it is needed badly. I am a happily married man with a wonderful wife and two small children back in the states. I've been in Korea for four months. After living a normal life for three years, what is a young, healthy man supposed to do for his physical needs?

There are 12 women for every G.I. over here, and the women practically throw themselves at our feet. Don't get me wrong, Abby. I love my wife and always will, but I have a long hitch over here and I am only human. This letter is sincere, and I am not ashamed to sign my name, but if you use it, please sign me.

And Abby's reply:
DEAR G.I.: Assume for a moment that I received the following letter:

DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married woman with a wonderful husband and two small children. My husband has been in Vietnam for four months. After living a normal married life for three years, what is a young, healthy woman supposed to do for her physical needs? There are plenty of men around, and when they learn my husband is in Vietnam, they practically throw themselves at my feet.

Don't get me wrong, Abby. I love my husband and always will, but he's going to be gone a long time and I am only human.

(signed) G.I.'S WIFE
Well, G.I., I would tell that woman to keep as busy as possible with her duties and as many wholesome activities as her time and energy permit. I'd suggest reading, exhausting physical exercise, and yes, even prayer! I'd tell her to stay sober and to avoid temptation, and to write to you every day! And that, G.I., is my answer to you, and to all your buddies in the same lonesome boat. Sincerely,

ABBY:
DEAR ABBY: I am a blind girl 23 years old and my problem is that I have tripped and poked a lot of people with my cane because many people with vision do not understand why blind people use canes.

They are to help us "see" what is head of us — not to help us walk!

So, Abby, please be a friend, and tell those who can see to please use their eyes and keep their noses out of their newspapers when they see someone with a white cane and green handle (or a red tip).

We don't want to initiate any new members into our club. Accidents can cause blindness.

LINDA FOR THE LIGHTHOUSE

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Carroll Richter's horoscope

SUNDAY, JAN. 17, 1971

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Be sure you doublecheck whatever you say or do in order to avoid a potentially lurking mistake. Show you have the ability to truly cooperate with associates. Show them you are the one who does value those who have been devoted to you. So avoid misunderstandings now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't permit worldly affairs to keep you from having the fine rapport you want with others. Listen to what associate has to suggest. Go to social affairs where you get the right results with others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Weighing your words is important now to avoid making a bad mistake. Add charming new pieces to home and make it look more charming. Go out with loved one to delightful recreation in the evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Studying present conditions wisely in the morning is good so that the later part of the day can be an enjoyable one. Good pals will join with you gladly at fun places. Take good care of a person who is not feeling well.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have family duties to attend so forget outsiders for the time being. Handle them wisely. Get at the basis of your living and improve all conditions around you. Pick that hobby you like in the evening.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take the short trip with associates that will bring the results you mutually desire. Steer clear of newcomer who does not think as you do. Handling that correspondence intelligently is important.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Think more about improving financial status and cut down on expenses where fun is concerned. Talk over with expert in financial affairs how to improve your own. Keep active and you get ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Being with others for the social pleasures you enjoy brings fine results today. A duty at home can be handled another day just as well. Dress in good style.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Investigating into whatever is puzzling brings the right answers now and gets you into the good graces of experts as well. Try to help one who is in real trouble. Show that you are a true humanitarian.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Forget any financial lack and go out socially where you can make the right contacts for greater abundance and happiness in the future. Idealistic aims should be clarified. Think constructively.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Listen to the ideas of others and go along with them instead of being so stubborn about your own, which may not be so good now. A higher-up will then give you the support you want.

THINK.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you delve into the spiritual and educational matters of importance, you make this a most worthwhile day. Planning that trip can be done with safety now. Consider the financial side well.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Stick to principle in all that you do today. Study those big ideas well, using intuition you possess. The evening should be devoted to mate. Plan something ideal that will please.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be a born embellisher of both property and people, having the capacity for making others feel happy with themselves, which only accentuates such feelings in self, at the same time. Give an opportunity to be as social as possible early, and the married life may start early in life, which is good for stabilizing and economical purposes, since your progeny is apt to want to spend too much money.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Richter's Individual Forecast for your sign for February is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Richter Forecast The Daily Freeman, Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

MONDAY, JAN. 18

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Startling and dramatic events can occur in relation to your association with other persons and you would be wise to accept whatever arises, to take a good look at it and quietly decide whether or not it will fit easily into your plan of life. Accept what you like and make little ad about what does not please you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Associates can give you some excellent ideas but be sure to study them well and get more data before putting them in operation. Avoid one who is trying to upset your balance. Show you have wisdom.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plunge right into that work ahead of you but show that you have neat touch and fine finish, and that you are an expert in your particular job. Get out socially in p.m. Stop being so self-conscious.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Something comes up unexpectedly today so that you can have the fun you want and relieve tensions. Show your finest creative talents. Steer clear of persons who do not really appreciate you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you show how devoted you are to family, you can gain the good feeling that has been impossible before this. Help with duties at home. Get rid of whatever stands in the way of harmony.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can dash out to that business or little trip provided you are most careful in motion, driving, etc., and do not talk carelessly. You have every possibility of making better agreement with others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Show that you know how to handle money most effectively now. Big business expert gives fine advice to start the week off right. Show others that you are of a peaceful frame of mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Something may possibly come up that will be a challenge to your patience, so meet it remarkably well. Much happiness of a personal nature can come of it eventually. Gad about socially later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to be subtle and adopt a new attitude if you want the favor of one you are fond of. Try to secure the information you want from the right sources. Don't waste funds or time foolishly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good pal gives an unexpected idea that will help you to gain your finest personal longings. Join with fascinating people at social matters and become more popular, gain more knowledge. Get back into that hobby tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you get into that civic matter intelligently, you will be noticed by a bigwig who can open new doors of opportunity for you. Do whatever will improve credit rating. Show others you are interested in their welfare.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Some inspiring new idea can be exactly what is needed to make you more successful or happy, or both. Developing along right lines is possible now. Making new contacts can be of great assistance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Begin week properly by handling all those responsibilities in your own fine, efficient manner, and gain the favor of higher-ups, experts. Favors can come from one who is devoted to you. Show kindness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people with a special charm that will endear him or her to almost everyone, and others will want to help your progeny in any way possible. It would be well to give the training necessary to express that fine artistic gift with which possessed, which could bring fame. Anything connected with pleasing the public, serving them in stylish fashion is good. Religion, sports, early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Richter's Individual Forecast for your sign for February is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Richter Forecast The Daily Freeman, Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

South wins the first trick with dummy's ace of diamonds. The simple way to play the hand is to run off five rounds of trumps and then go after the club suit. The slam will make any time clubs break 2-2 or when West holds a singleton king or queen. There is a better way to play the hand by keeping the clubs in reserve while giving yourself an extra chance in hearts. That extra chance is to find a 4-3 break in that suit so that one of South's clubs can go on the ace hearts and another on the fifth heart.

South can start by leading a heart to his king at trick two. Then he leads his four of trumps to dummy's eight. In case all five trumps show up in one hand, South must abandon the heart play and go back to the simple line, but both opponents follow.

Now comes the next gamble. South must play dummy's ace of hearts and take a chance on that card being ruffed. It doesn't get ruffed and a third heart is led and ruffed. Both opponents follow to that third heart so plan two is going to succeed.

South ruffs this third heart, enters dummy with the king of trumps, ruffs a fourth heart, draws the last trump held by the defense. One club has been discarded on the ace of hearts, another goes on the last heart, and South loses one club trick at the end.

ABC Mulls Monday Sports

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Year-round programming of sports in Monday night prime time is being considered by ABC-TV as a future possibility.

That is the word from James Duffy, president of ABC-TV. The basic reason for the possibility, of course, was the enormous success of the network's new, Monday prime time pro football series this season.

The first step in possibly using Monday nights for more than just football was taken recently when ABC-TV tried a prime time pro basketball game between the Los Angeles Lakers and Milwaukee Bucks.

Duffy says the network was definitely pleased with the overnight rating results in New York City. And, he adds, pro basketball is "a good possibility" for weekly showings in Monday prime time next season when the pro football schedule is completed.

Year-Round Sports. "Eventually," he says, "Year-round sports programming on Monday nights is possible."

Some observers had felt that ABC-TV's commitment to old movies following this season's football windup was the reason the network did not take a quick step to move right in with pro basketball—especially after the rating results of the Los Angeles-Milwaukee game.

But Duffy says this was not the reason. The problem, he indicated, was in booking the required arenas on such short notice.

Duffy feels pro basketball has really arrived as a major sports attraction.

"It now has a star system," he says.

As for this season's recent pro football games, he added that the average audience for an ABC-TV Monday night contest was 30 million persons, of which about eight million were women.

Other Events

What other events is ABC-TV considering, besides pro football and pro basketball, for year-round Monday night sports programming if it should come?

Duffy says baseball is a possibility, as well as track and field. But he adds that, of course, there are numerous other events to consider. The basic approach, he indicates, is that all such Monday night sports events would have to be exceptional, not routine, athletic occasions.

For example, he recalled the success of past prime time scheduling of Olympic events.

And, he said, ABC-TV at this schedule, Monday through Friday, is high on the idea of day, to its coverage of the devoting its entire prime time Olympics in Munich in 1972.

Americans in Global Tribute to Dr. King

By United Press International
In Washington, 1,500 marchers braving cold temperatures followed a slow-moving mule train to the Capitol and presented petitions bearing 3 million signatures.

In Chicago, teachers picketed. At Long Binh, Vietnam, GIs paraded in the largest black power demonstration seen in the war zone and shouted slogans before the U.S. Army's Vietnam headquarters. The marches and demonstrations on different sides of the globe Friday marked the 42nd birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., killed by an assassin's bullet at Memphis, Tenn., April 4, 1968.

The symbolic mule train delivered petition signatures urging Congress to declare the Nobel Peace Prize-winner's birthday a legal national holiday. It was led by the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The day was a school holiday in civil rights leader's birthplace—Atlanta, Ga. But in Chicago, striking teachers continued to picket despite an agreement reached Friday. They protested the refusal of the school board to declare a holiday in King's memory this year.

In Atlanta, King's widow, Coretta, and other members of the family attended a memorial service at the Ebenezer Baptist Church where King once preached. Mrs. King then dedicated a new housing project called Martin Luther King Village.

At Long Binh near Saigon, about 40 American soldiers marched to the Army headquarters chanting "Free Angela Davis" and "Stop racial discrimination in the Army." They carried a tricolored black power flag, a three-foot wooden cross and a sign reading,

"Honor Dr. Martin Luther King."

President Nixon in a statement hailed King as "an inspiration to the nation." He said King would remain an inspiration "long after his dream becomes a part of the reality of American life."

Ceremonies elsewhere in Washington renamed Nichols Avenue in the city's southwest section Martin Luther King Avenue. A new central library also will be named for King.

Other rallies, marches, workshops and memorial church services honored King throughout the nation. In one typical observance, students at T. C. Williams High School at Alexandria, Va., held a dance to raise food and money for the poor.

THE BUDGET—Mayor Koenig enjoyed a banner year with the Common Council in 1970, passing every single piece of legislation he sent up. But then, 1970 was not an election year.

The first piece of major legislation, naturally, in 1971 was the mayor's budget, a $5.8 million dollar affair. Nobody expected it to pass like last year's budget, by a 13-0 vote for several very good reasons.

First of all, last year's budget was former Mayor Raymond Garraghan's, not Koenig's. Koenig could not, and would not be held responsible for Garraghan's figures. After all, he wasn't around when it was drawn up. In addition, Koenig was riding the crest of a 3,900 vote victory.

But times change. This was Koenig's budget all the way. And Koenig's up for reelection. And so are all the aldermen.

There were some grumblings about the mayor's intention to appoint Mrs. Rose Hogan as deputy city clerk but very little against Mrs. Hogan, personally. The gripe was about the $7,500 salary. The mayor, we hear, drove home the point in closed door sessions that the deputy city clerk should be paid more than a clerk-typist, the next position down the scale. Koenig's point carried and the whole issue of salary adjustments was swept under the rug.

IN FACT, the mayor's budget was presented to the Council by the finance committee exactly the way Koenig presented it to the committee on Dec. 29.

Rumor had it that the budget had no chance of passing. Insiders said that Don Quick, Flo Ludlow and Mike Perry, along with the four Republicans, were going to vote against it.

It almost worked out that way. The "almost" leads us to the Bernie Sims affair.

Bernie, the 13th Ward Republican, enjoys an enviable position. He's the last man to vote on any issue. Usually it's academic by the time the vote gets around to Bernie. Usually, but not always.

Tuesday night presented one of those unusual situations. Mike Perry, stealing a march from John (the bomb) Heitzman moved to table the budget. He got a second from Flo Ludlow.

Now, according to Council rules, motions to table are voted on with no debate. This can make for fast votes. It got to Bernie in a hurry, tied at 6-6.

Three Republicans had already voted to table the budget. Bernie was a Republican. His vote could table it. Koenig would suffer his first Council defeat. In an election year. Whoopie... Sock it to him... Up the GOP... Bernie voted against the table motion.

THE REACTION among the aldermen was not unlike when Rabbi Eichhorn made his "prayer for fluoridation" on New Year's Day.

Mel Mones, the party chairman, sat in the audience with egg on his face. He had counted his chickens prematurely. Later, Mones expressed "displeasure" at Bernie's vote. Mones can be a master of understatement.

We hear now, that Sims, in the interest of party discipline, stands a good chance of being denied the Republican nomination in the 13th Ward this coming spring.

The party feels that Sims should have gone along on the table vote for two very good reasons.

First, and probably foremost, the party had not pressured the Republican aldermen to vote its way on previous issues. They pretty much vote an issue the way they see it. Or as Mones put it, "We don't beat those guys over the head."

Secondly, it was a harmless vote. It is understandable that if Sims had been voting on the budget itself that he might have differed with the party. But he was voting on a move to table. Everyone would have come back next week and passed the budget, anyway.

DEFENDERS of Sims point out that the possibility of a table motion had been ruled out in the Republican caucus before the Council meeting. It is a matter of record that a Republican did not offer the table motion, Perry, a Democrat did. And further, if any Republican were going to offer a table motion it would have been John Machione, the minority leader, who merely voted against the committee report when his turn came, previous to Perry's.

Now, back to the "dump Bernie" movement. It creates some interesting possibilities, assuming that Sims is denied the nomination in his home ward, which is by the way, a rather large assumption. At least one of those 13th Ward GOP committeemen, Al Eisele, is extremely fond of Bernie. It is said that Al Eisele would jump off the Rondout Bridge for his buddy, Bernie. Bernie is also a GOP committeeman from the 13th Ward. The other two, Jason Goumas and Sid Lane, are also big Bernie backers.

Ergo, the city GOP would have to run its own man against Bernie. Result: Two guys splitting the Republican vote. The Demos get themselves an alderman. Cheap.

Then there's the previously mentioned John (the bomb) Heitzman. John, in case anyone forgot, is moving back into the 13th ward.

Heitzman currently represents the First Ward. Heitzman has said that he won't run for alderman in the 13th Ward. He will finish out his term in the First.

WE HEAR that John doesn't want to run against Bernie because he likes Bernie. That's understandable. A lot of people like Bernie. A lot of them live in the 13th Ward. Even Mel Mones likes Bernie and Mel doesn't even live in Bernie's ward.

Maybe, with Bernie out of the race, or in the race against a party-backed Republican, John reconsiders. He resigns as First Ward alderman and moves into the 13th as the Democratic candidate against Bernie and Whatzis Name.

The mayor appoints a Democratic alderman in the First to finish out John's term. The guy runs for election as an incumbent alderman. Elect Alderman Joe Doaks looks a lot better on those campaign cards than elect Joe Doaks. And the woods in the First Ward aren't exactly full of powerhouse Republican candidates.

We don't claim to be a political expert, but it would seem that by dumping Sims in the 13th Ward, the Republicans stand to give away two wards, the 13th and the First.

The last word we got on the Sims Affair was that cooler heads may prevail.

We hope so. We wouldn't like to see John Heitzman inconvenienced by a hasty move.

Release Grand Jury Testimony

Angela Davis Linked to Killings

ANGELA DAVIS

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Grand jury testimony links black militant Angela Davis to a teen-ager and the guns he smuggled into a courtroom for an escape try that left four men dead.

The 127-pages of testimony was made public Friday by court order. Sixteen other pages remained sealed temporarily.

Miss Davis, 26-year-old avowed Communist and former UCLA philosophy instructor, was indicted by the Marin County grand jury last Aug. 15 on charges of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy and is jailed at the Civic Center complex where the shooting occurred.

Killed in a rented yellow van during the Aug. 7 escape attempt were Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley, San Quentin prison convicts James McClain and William Arthur

Christmas, and 17-year-old Jonathan Jackson, who smuggled the guns into Haley's courtroom.

Peter D. Fleming, a service station attendant, testified before the grand jury that he had helped Jackson and a woman resembling Miss Davis start a yellow rental van with battery trouble in the Civic Center parking lot the day before the shooting.

He said several photographs of Miss Davis looked "a lot like" the woman he saw with Jackson. "This looks like her," he said at one point. "But I can't remember about the teeth." There is a noticeable space between two of Miss Davis' front teeth.

Testimony identifies Miss Davis as the purchaser of four guns found inside the van. David Lifsen and Frank Blu-mental, both clerks in the Eagle Loan Office in San Francisco, testified that she bought a 12-gauge shotgun on Aug. 5, two days before the shooting. Lifsen said he recognized Miss Davis at the time from news photos and got her autograph.

Nancy Conrad, a clerk in the Western Surplus Store in Los Angeles, testified that Miss Davis bought an M1 carbine and 200 rounds of ammunition on July 25.

John E. Plimpton, assistant manager of the Brass Rail Gun Shop in Hollywood, testified that on Jan. 12, 1968, Miss Davis purchased from him a Browning semiautomatic pistol. He identified the gun found after the shootout as the same one.

Owen Swisher, a salesman at Western Surplus, testified that on April 7, 1969, Miss Davis bought from him a .30 caliber carbine and 100 rounds of ammunition. He also identified the weapon shown him as the one he had sold Miss Davis.

Jackson was identified in testimony as the man accompanying Miss Davis during the purchase of one gun, and possibly a second.

San Quentin Prison Lt. Robert H. West testified that Miss Davis is accompanied Jackson on two visits to his older brother, George Jackson on Aug. 4 and Aug. 5.

Miss Davis remained in a waiting room while Jackson visited his brother, one of the three so-called "Soledad Brothers" accused of killing a guard in January 1970, West said.

A Pacific Southwest Airline employee testified he sold, near flight time, a Los Angeles ticket at San Francisco International Airport to Miss Davis at 2 p.m. Aug. 7, three hours after the shooting.

"She was terribly rushed, very rushed, realizing that it was the last minute and she was terribly worried that she wouldn't make it because she had this check to write out, testified Marcia Brewer, a PSA ticket agent.

Miss Davis has termed the charges against her a "frame-up" because of her political views and activities.

She is not accused of being a participant in the shootout, but was indicted under a California law which holds an accomplice in equal guilt with the person who commits a crime.

The withheld 16 pages of testimony was primarily from Gary W. Thomas, Marin County assistant district attorney, who was taken hostage during the shootout and was shot in the spine. He is now paralyzed from the waist down.

Dr. John H. Manwaring, who performed the autopsy on Haley's body, testified that the judge was shot in the chest by a pistol or rifle and in the face by a saved off shotgun that had been taped to his neck. Manwaring said it was impossible to establish which caused death, but said either wound could have been responsible.

Ruchell Magee, 31, a San Quentin convict, who survived the shootout, has been charged in a grand jury indictment with murdering the judge.

Magee's court-appointed attorney, who is asking to be replaced, had asked the court to withhold until a new attorney is named the 16 pages of testimony relating to his client because it "could result in publicity so inherently prejudicial as to endanger a fair trial."

GE to Spend $9.2 Million On Expansion

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — General Electric Co. will expand facilities at its largest and oldest plant at a cost of 9.2 million. GE vice president Donald E. Craig said Friday.

A $6.7 million project is to include construction and equipping of a gas turbine development laboratory. No date has been set for construction or completion.

Creation of a machining operation in the foundry department and expansion and upgrading of processing, at a cost of $2.5 million, is underway.

The company employs 27,000 persons here. GE also seeks approval to build a Merrimack, N.H. facility, Craig said. The New England plant would employ about 100 persons to perform machine operations on generator frames.

Ready Mental Probe Of Troops at My Lai

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The mental makeup of the soldier dogging an elusive enemy in Vietnam will be explored next at the court-martial of Lt. William Calley. His lawyers hope it will help explain what happened at My Lai.

But under limits imposed by the trial judge, the testimony of three psychiatrists will deal only with hypothetical questions—not with the defendant himself.

Should the psychiatrists stray outside those lines, the government would have the right to turn Calley over to Army psychiatrists for examination—a process that might interrupt the trial for three or four weeks.

The prosecution said it has not had Calley examined by a psychiatrist.

"Anything that goes to a mental, character or behavioral disorder," said Judge Reid Kennedy, "I would have to have him examined by a sanity board." The limit, he said, "is anything that goes to the capacity to form intent."

The 27-year-old Calley, a platoon leader in the March 16, 1968, assault on My Lai, is charged with premeditated murder of at least 102 Vietnamese men, women and children.

The Army court-martial manual defines murder as premeditated "after the formation of a specific intent to kill someone and consideration of the act intended."

The sanity board would examine Calley at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington.

When the defense raised the prospect of psychiatric testimony earlier, prosecutor Aubrey Daniel complained:

"A year ago, I asked the defense if capacity to stand trial or ability to comprehend the charges would be an issue. Has anything changed?"

Defense lawyer George Lattimer replied that the doctors would testify only about "the stresses and strains of combat, the confusion that exists."

U.S. Bombers Attack N. Viet Missile Sites

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Command today reported two American air attacks against anti-aircraft emplacements inside North Vietnam. Stubborn Communist resistance stalled an Allied offensive to open Cambodia's vital Highway 4 to the sea.

American spokesmen said the circumstances of the U.S. air strikes in North Vietnam Friday were almost identical with those in another such attack Jan. 8.

The command said U.S. F105 Wild Weasel fighter-bombers attacked after their electronic equipment indicated the North Vietnamese anti-aircraft missile radar had "locked on" to U.S. bombers hitting the Ho Chi Minh Trail in nearby Laos and were preparing to fire.

The F105s fired Shrike homing missiles against the North Vietnamese missile sites. There was no indication of whether the Communist missile sites were destroyed.

The strikes were carried out 12 miles north of Mu Gia Pass, the principal route through the Annamite Mountains for shipments of arms and supplies to the Ho Chi Minh Trail and were against two separate missile sites.

The Defense Department has approved such attacks when opened fire despite the large U.S. planes' electronic gear detect radar signals from helicopter, the spokesmen said.

3 Broadway Hits For Kingston's Community Stage

LARRY PARKS and BETTY GARRETT, starring in Neil Simon's Broadway comedy hit "PLAZA SUITE." The husband and wife team brings the long run show to Kingston on Monday, April 12.

A full-scale lavish Broadway musical and two long-run comedy hits will be presented on the stage of Kingston's Community Theatre as a subscription series by the American Theatre League, the largest organization of paygoers operating from coast to coast.

The recent Broadway comedies are "Forty Carats" and "Plaza Suite." The large-cast musical is "Zorba," based on the great motion picture, "Zorba, The Greek." All the original Broadway scenery and costumes will be duplicated for the extensive national tours of these three companies, and their stopovers here.

The opening production of the series will be "Forty Carats" with a large cast featuring Barbara Britton, star of stage, screen and television. This David Merrick comedy hit just recently closed on Broadway after attracting capacity audiences for two seasons. It originally starred Julie Harris who was followed by Hollywood's June Allison and Zsa Zsa Gabor. "Forty Carats" will be presented at the Community on Wednesday evening, March 10.

Neil Simon's rollicking comedy, "Plaza Suite," will be seen for one evening performance, Monday, April 12. This record-run recent New York production will co-star the famous theatrical team, Larry Parks and Betty Garrett. The hilarious comedy, originally starring George C. Scott and Maureen Stapleton, was the seventh straight hit authored by Neil Simon and is considered by many critics as being his funniest writing.

The final presentation of the season on May 17 will be the colorful and robust musical, "Zorba," starring the stage and screen favorite, Vivian Blaine, and the noted Greek actor, Michael Kermoyan. The absorbing action and zesty melodies flash back to happenings in Piraeus, Athens and Crete during 1924.

Subscriptions for the three Broadway roadshows include the same choice seats all season at a generous discount. These are available through the American Theatre League, Inc., in care of the Community Theatre in Kingston. Brochures and information may be obtained by telephoning manager Marge Thomas at the theatre, 331-1613 — or through mail requests.

DIVORCED — But he still hangs around as her friend and advisor — Barbara Britton and Robert Darnell in a scene from the comedy smash "FORTY CARATS." It's the opening production of the series here.

"Forty Carats," the first show, is great fun — an uproarious, breezy, beguiling comedy. It comes from the same Parisian masters of laughs who wrote "Cactus Flower" and is a farcical tale with appeal to young and old, since it proves that one's age makes no difference!

A Frothy Fable

Barbara Britton is the perfectly suited star of this frothy fable, portraying a woman who admits to forty but is so alluring that a rich and highly eligible young man of 22 woos her ardently with marriage in mind. Miss Britton will be remembered as the distaff member of the "Mr. and Mrs. North" TV series for years, but she has also been seen in many films and stage plays.

"Carats" ran on Broadway from late 1968 to late 1970, and its madcap situations involving the heroine's 17-year-old daughter's fascination for a middle-aged man and her prowling ex-husband's romantic escapades drew capacity audiences month after month.

"Plaza Suite," the second presentation, is another avalanche of hilarity; ran up a total of 1,097 performances on Broadway. Its husband and wife team stars, Larry Parks and Betty Garrett, headlined the same show previously for extended runs in Chicago, Philadelphia and Toronto.

Audiences know Parks as the spectacular performer of "The Jolson Story" and "Jolson Sings Again" and 26 other films. Betty Garrett has 22 movies to her credit; has played with such greats as Frank Sinatra, Jack Lemmon and Mickey Rooney. As a team, the duo appeared in the Broadway productions of "Bells Are Ringing" and "Beg, Borrow or Steal." Separately they both have many other Broadway and TV credits: toured nationally in "Cactus Flower."

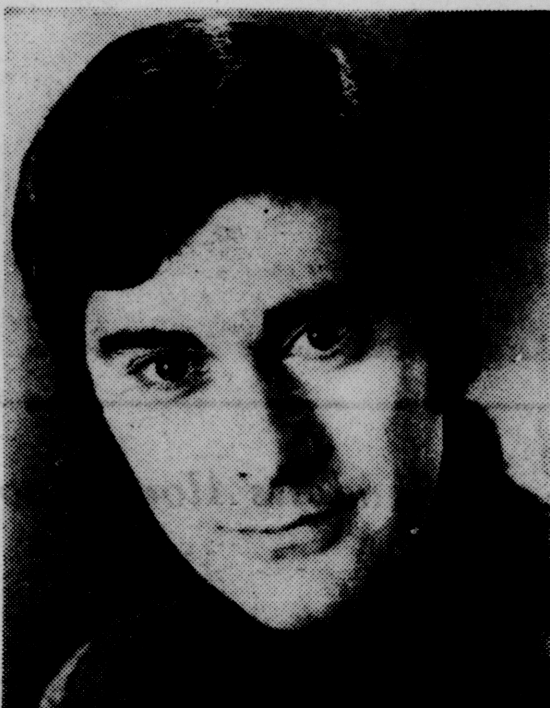

Trio of Stories

"Suite's" plot consists of three separate stories with action taking place in the same suite at New York City's Plaza Hotel. The first involves an unusual turn-of-events with a husband and wife celebrating a wedding anniversary; the second reveals a movie star who invites an old flame to visit him—leading to a most hilarious romp. The third episode depicts the parents of a bride whose wedding ceremony is interrupted when the

VIVIAN BLAINE, who introduced the ever-memorable "Adelaide's Lament" and "Take Back Your Mink" songs in the original production of "Guys and Dolls," will be seen here as the fascinating French lady in the N.Y. musical hit "ZORBA."

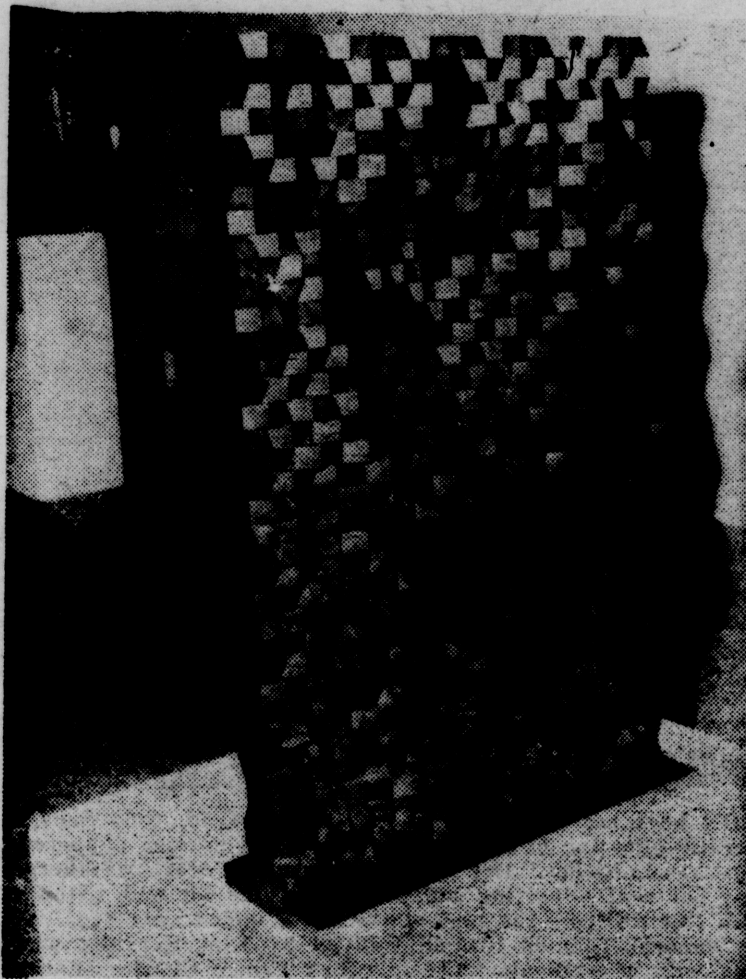

THOM KOUTSOUKOS, who will have one of the leading roles — that of the teacher who learns so much about life — in the big stage musical "ZORBA," coming to Kingston's Community Theatre on May 17 via Tom Mallow's national touring company.

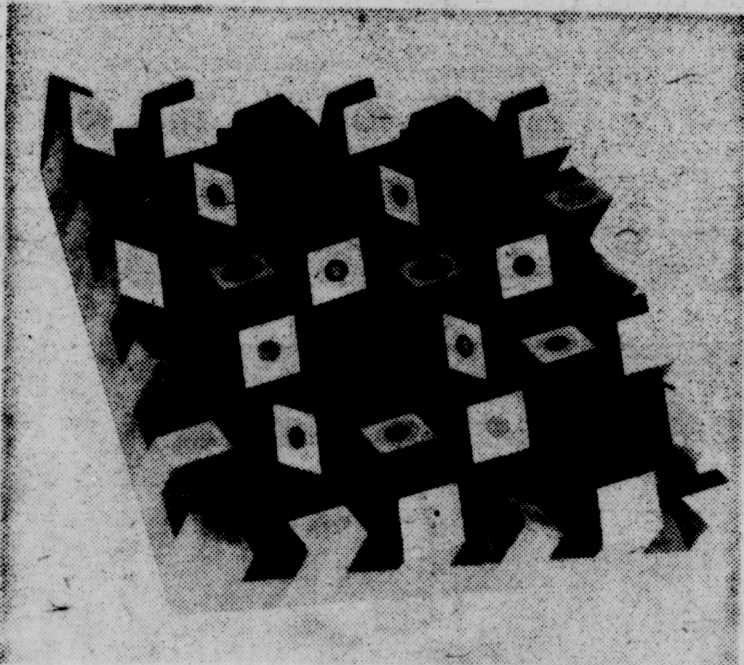

IN "ZORBA," a show filled with spectacular dances, Michael Kermoyan will be seen as "Zorba," the ever-vigorous vagabond with an overwhelming love of life. Kermoyan's soaring baritone voice can be counted on to shake the rafters of the Community.

Color, Form and Light at New Paltz

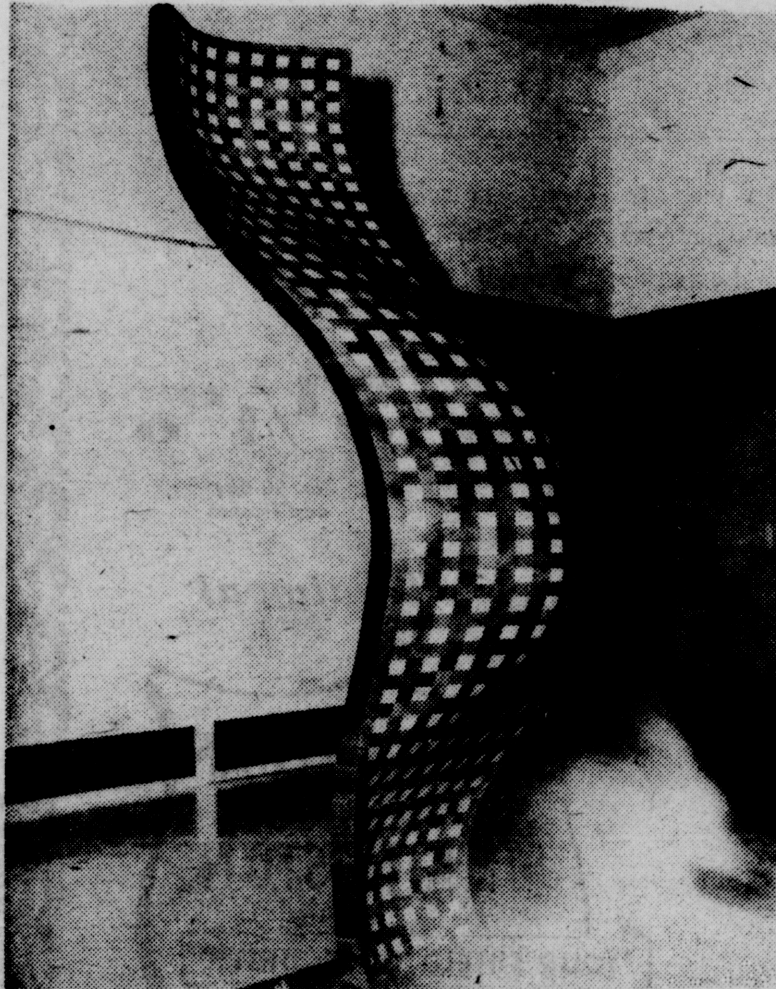

17-THE DAILY FREEMAN, JANUARY 16, 1971

"UNDULATING WALL" is the work of Arthur Hoener. Unique work is featured in the current exhibit in the South Gallery of the State University College Art Gallery at New Paltz.

"ECHO" is the title of this work by artist Hoener in the exhibition slated to run through Jan. 21 on the New Paltz campus. It testifies to his theory that "the art of a work is to be found embodied within rather than plastered on its surface."

LAMINATED WOOD has been utilized in a search for artistic form in this piece by Arthur Hoener. The artist has entitled the work, "Standing Figure No. 2." It, too, is included in the January display at New Paltz; attests to Hoener's unique ability "to find the way inside where the real action is."

Works by Dennis Byng and Arthur Hoener are currently on exhibit in the South Gallery of the College Art Gallery on the State University College campus at New Paltz. The show opened last week; will continue through Jan. 21.

Both artists have fused together a wealth of splendid shapes in their low-lying or high-flying sculptures of laminated wood or plexiglas. Their works involve all sorts of arresting geometric counterpoints, and the end results are like intelligent puzzles, accurately solved. There is also an underlying ruggedness in the sculpture of both artists which lends substance and depth to each configuration.

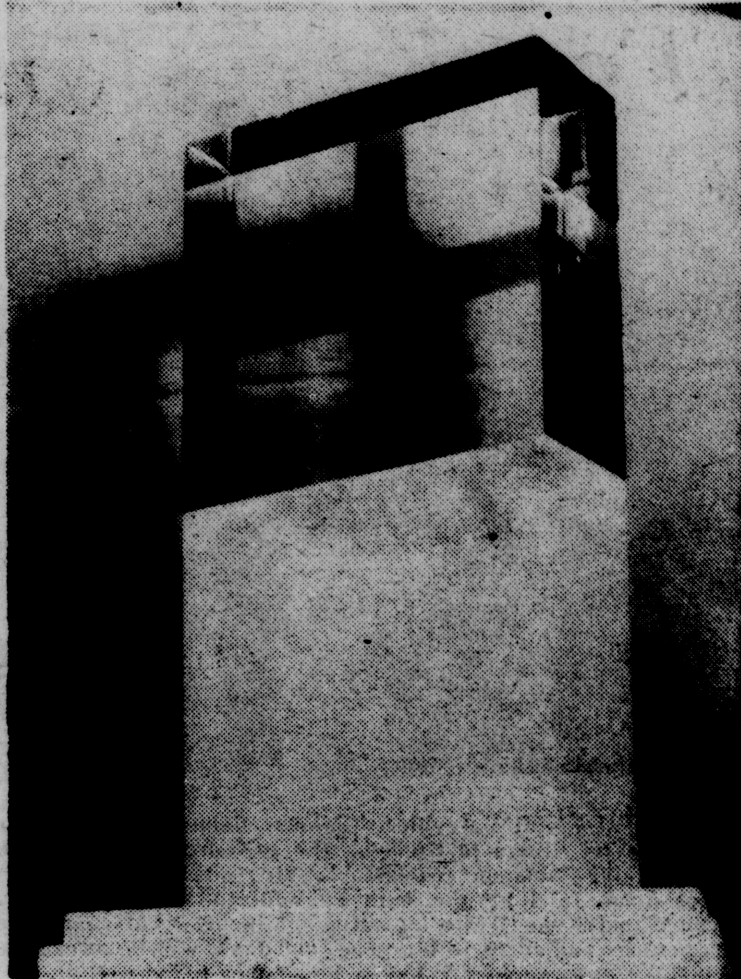

The Byng and Hoener exhibit testifies to the fact that these artists are willing to experiment in every possible direction. Their current show at Paltz makes it apparent that even the word "sculpture" is out of date as a descriptive term. It used to mean the modelling or carving of a solid substance. Now there are "constructions," or "devices," or "environments," and very few examples of what used to be called sculptures.

Plexiglas Sculptures

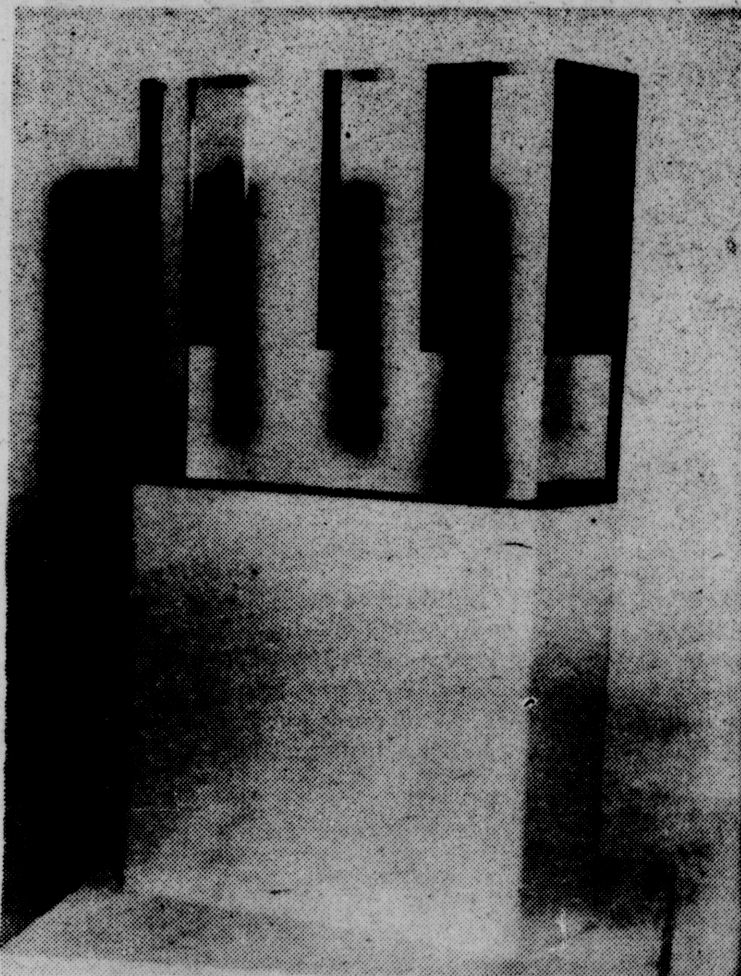

For Byng, a member of the art faculty of the State University at Albany, the word "sculpture" means creating a "total internal reflection" object. He strives for "economy" in setting up a visual situation where forms and colors within the structure seem to multiply. His works on the New Paltz show are of laminated and dyed plexiglas, and utilize color, form and light to their fullest extent.

Hoener's work also attests to some of the creative trends of the moment. A member of the faculty of Hampshire College in Northampton, Mass., Hoener takes off in new directions in his "going within" sculpture. He has elected to concentrate on these directions through the use of laminated wood and, in the doing, has generated a creative excitement.

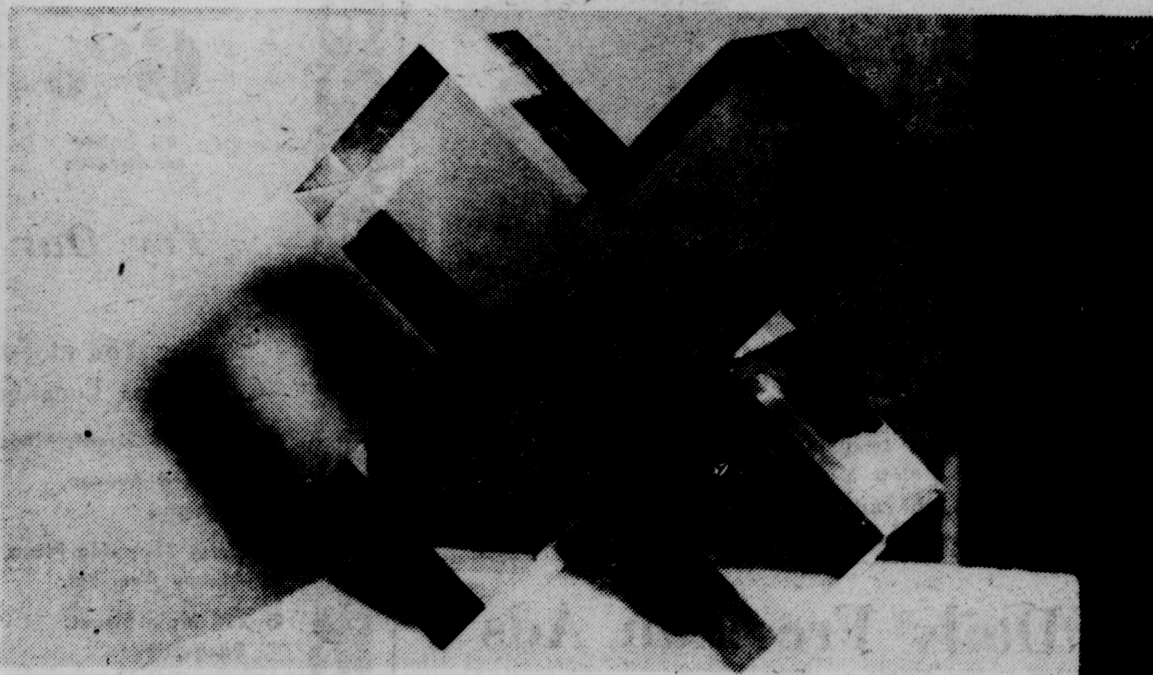

Gallery hours for the two-man exhibit are Monday to Friday from 9-5, Thursday from 9-9, and Sunday from 2-5.

DENNIS BYNG chose as the title for this work, "Column with Squares." Byng shares exhibit space with Arthur Hoener in the current two-man show featured at the College Art Gallery in New Paltz.

"COLUMN WITH THREE DIAGONALS" is an example of a "total internal reflection" object, as created by artist Dennis Byng, a member of the art faculty at State University in Albany and whose sculpture works are now on view at New Paltz.

Turn-of-the-Century Entertainment Lots of Fun

VARNA JORGENSON warbles "Saloon, Saloon, Saloon" during an olio between acts of "Rags to Riches," the melodrama currently being staged by Performing Arts of Woodstock. Her plaintive appeal against the evils of drink falls on the ears of William Burgin as a Victorian era bartender and Kenn White as a typical inebriate of that time. The play, which returns audiences to the good, old days, will be offered again tonight and Sunday evening at 8 p.m. in Woodstock's Town Hall.

BARBARA SIMON begs not to be thrown out "In the Cold, Cold Snow" in this brief operatic olio, one of the many vaudeville vignettes peppered between acts of "Rags to Riches." Her plea is answered by Mark Weinberg, who offers to pay her rent — leaving a caped Larry Shufeldt with nothing more to say than "CURSES!" The plot of the PAW melodrama revolves around a pretty innocent named Flossie (played by Kim Herald), who becomes involved with a profligate playboy called Prince Charlie (Larry Shufeldt as villain).

THE FAIR HEROINE of "Rags to Riches," the current production of Performing Arts of Woodstock, is a lass named Flossie. As portrayed here by Kim Herald, she offers a rose to Kenn White as her long, lost father. At this point in the proceedings, however, she doesn't know he's her father and he doesn't know she's his little girl long lost.

VILLAINS ABOUND in the melodramatic plot of "Rags to Riches." Herewith, two of the meanest to ever grace a stage: Gerry Burke as Chinese Sam and Larry Shufeldt as a gambler named Prince Charlie. Evil-minded duo administers chloroform to pretty Flossie in this scene. The play, which opened New Year's Eve, will close its run after performances tonight and Sunday evening (both stagings at 8 p. m.) in Woodstock's Town Hall.

On Campus: Show Place for Architecture

19—THE DAILY FREEMAN, JANUARY 16, 1971

TODAY'S AMERICAN ARCHITECTS share certain common characteristics in their recognition of the inherent qualities of a building site and in development of form as a response to the nature of the architectural problem involved. This vacation residence for a family at Sea Ranch, Calif., shows the architect's creative approach to a home surrounded by sea and sand. It is one of the award-winning buildings on view currently at the UCCC campus.

Critics of the American scene Visual Arts Gallery at Ulster long spans, hyperbolic paraboloid roofs, computerized designs and other advanced structural techniques with relish. From fortress-like college laboratories to small brick residences to molded concrete towers and walkways, the architectural art at UCCC impresses. A sweeping roof, an open plaza, blunt and varied forms, massive wedges, and vertical lines—all are shapes and styles that draw a response.

In the lifetime of most of us, office buildings have tended to dominate the architectural scene in this country. Today, however, it is the colleges, universities, elementary schools and private residences that bring out the best creative efforts of our architects.

The newest art series in the

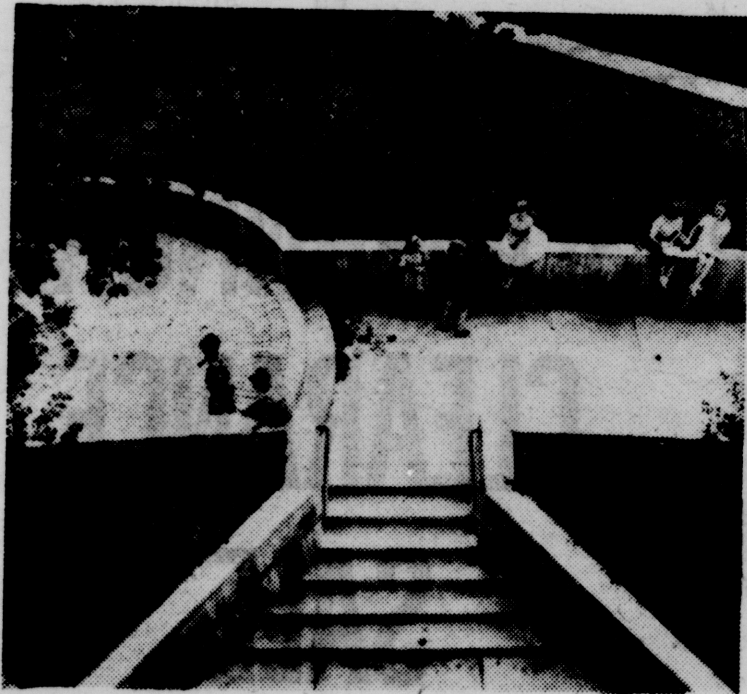

Shapes and Styles

The show intrigues for many reasons, not the least of which is the fact that many consider architecture the most important of the arts. Viewers will understand why as they observe how U.S. architects have used to artful advantage such things as

Tempo commends this strikingly handsome art exhibit at UCCC in which buildings as diverse as a Chicago skyscraper apartment house, a small beach cottage on the California coast, and a mammoth laboratory at Cornell University vie for the eye. See it soon at the campus art gallery, open Monday through Friday during regular college hours. (T.G.)

THE COLLEGE CAMPUS has inspired U. S. architects to daring design in recent years. This building at Cornell, for example, rises high on a hill over-looking the university. The looming brick tower, set off by a two-story administrative wing, has a sculptured vertical facade of service shafts that create a play of light and shadow. Designed by Architect Ulrich Franzen, it features fume exhausts with open hoods which jut out like dog-ears from the roof. New conception is technically useful and utilitarian as well as aesthetically attractive. It is one of the structures featured in the current architectural art show at Ulster County Community College.

AT LINCOLN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL in Columbus, Ind., youngsters relax in an open plaza and walled walkway. Students gave the architect an E for excellence on the easily climbable flight of stairs and the open space which all have learned to enjoy between classes.

"HAVE A POTATO CHIP" — A child at the Old Mill School offers a snack to her two blind friends, Gerry Esperanza and Donna Kamita, in "DISCOVERING," part of the "San Francisco Mix" series. Produced for the Public Television network, the program will air in color next Friday, Jan. 22, at 10:30 p.m. over Channel 17.

An Unusual Program on 'The Search'

An unusual program on Public Television Channel 17 will rediscover some of the simple but beautiful things that people take for granted.

The program, "Discovering", Part of the "San Francisco Mix" series on shared human experiences, will be seen on Friday, January 22 at 10:30 p.m. "The theme of the program is that we all search for something — American Dream, Holy Grail, our fortune. What we discover is our own, close, everyday world," according to Mix producer E. G. Valens.

"We begin our television search through the eyes of two unusual children who discover largely by touch."

The children, Gerry Esperanza, 6, and Donna Kamita, 5, are blind. They are taken on a tour of an Francisco ending up at a school where they meet children who do not share their handicap.

Later the children meet Japanese mime artist Mamako who explains how her art relates to discovering. She is known for "Mamko's Baggage," a performance in which she takes a mime trip carrying allegorical baggage, symbolic of the burden man carries through life.

The First Churchills In Forsyte Tradition

Susan Hampshire ("The Forsyte Saga" Emmy-winner) has returned to America, this time as the brilliant and beautiful Sarah Churchill, wife of the first Duke of Marlborough.

THE FIRST CHURCHILLS made its American debut on Public Television Channels 13 and 17, Sunday night Jan. 10 at 9 p.m., and a brilliant start it was to the 39-week MASTERPIECE THEATRE series.

Set in 17th and 18th century England, THE FIRST CHURCHILLS is a luxurious delight of fine acting and magnificent sets and costumes, and is a stunning dramatic portrayal of one of the most remarkable periods in English history.

A General's Wife

Susan Hampshire plays the shrewd, saucy, politically adept wife of one of the greatest Generals — and most successfully ambitious — men of the English Court.

The Court of King Charles II

where John and Sarah met, has been called "the most immoral Court in English history." It was also the period of the English Restoration, the reign of Louis XIV, the Sun King of France and the Seven Years War.

Through it all, the Churchills move with adroitness and honesty, becoming virtually the joint-rulers of England under Queen Anne.

THE FIRST CHURCHILLS is a "tour de force" for Miss Hampshire, who is our guide through the fantastic political maneuverings. We first meet her at age 16 and last see her at age 65. The whole panorama of 17th-century England is seen through the eyes of Sarah, her love for John and their family, and their love for England.

Hoss Plans Film From His Story

Actor Dan Blocker, the "Hoss Cartwright" of NBC's long-running "Bonanza," is planning a two-hour made-for-TV movie based on his first published short story, which appeared in the December issue of Playboy Magazine.

Frobe Co-Stars

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Germany's Gert Frobe has been set for a co-starring role in "Star" with Warren Beatty and Goldie Hawn.

Stoned Bard

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Veteran character actor, John Carradine will play an alcoholic poet in "The Seven Minutes" at 20th Century-Fox.

Titled "The Best-Kept Secret," the Blocker story deals with a deaf-mute whose mechanical genius brings him into conflict with the narrow-minded people in his home town.

Blocker says he contemplates writing the television version himself, and producing it as an enterprise of his own company, D-Six Productions, Inc., in cooperation with Universal Pictures.

Blocker wrote the original short story version of "The Best-Kept Secret" when he became bored with inactivity during a brief illness. Within four days, he also turned out a full-length script for "Bonanza." Titled "Star," the segment will be shown on the popular series this spring.

There's still time to have a Merry Christmas with US!

You can still join the 5% Christmas Club at Ulster Savings, and look forward to a big check next Christmas instead of a pile of bills! A club at US pays 5% compounded daily from day-of-deposit — whether you complete the club or not — and you still have a choice of two fine gifts when you start a Holiday Club with US!

MARK LESTER, who played the appealing title role in "Oliver," stars in "Run Wild, Run Free," back for a rerun in the area. The film, especially recommended for children, will be shown at matinee performances today and tomorrow at Kingston's Community Theatre.

MOVIES

Dirty Dingus Magee

"It's kind of a western. He's sort of a cowboy."

So reads the current advertisements for "Dirty Dingus Magee," the movie now on screen at Kingston's Community. But what it all boils down to, really, is Frank Sinatra in a mangy role. It is, we suppose, a satiric western—and it is a fairly funny role for Sinatra, who plays a semi-tramp in low budget clothing. He strolls through "Magee" in a wardrobe that makes him look like the most unkempt hombre to ever walk the West.

What he is in this western comedy is a slippery character—a sly con man who could talk a rabbit into spending his vacation at a greyhound track. He works part-time for a mule-drawn stage-coach line, and he operates as a part-time outlaw with a price of ten dollars on his unwashed head.

King of Rodeo

Featured with Sinatra in the film are George Kennedy, Anne Jackson and Casey Tibbs, nine-time world rodeo champion who earned a million dollars during his career. Also featured, among various sets, is one jim-dandy of a three-story gingerbread-pleasure-palace, which houses 16 shady ladies of the evening.

"Magee" is not the most hilarious spoof of the old West to come along by way of the silver screen, but it has its fair share of laughs. We must object, however, to its GP rating. Several scenes set in a brothel and another of Sinatra's "horsing" around with a series of Indian girls are not exactly what we have in mind as entertaining viewing for youngsters.

M.A.S.H.

Elliott Gould and Donald Sutherland give smashing star performances in this hip service comedy about a Mobile Army Surgical Hospital. One of the blackest, bloodiest and funniest movies to come along in years, it's now in its fourth and final week at Kingston's Mayfair.

ELLIOTT GOULD (right) operates on a victim of war in "M.A.S.H.," the black and bloody comedy now in its fourth and final week at Kingston's Mayfair.

A superb war film it could well become a classic. Gould gives his best performance to date as the eccentric, cynical surgeon. He carries on his own private guerrilla war with the establishment.

And he is ably assisted by Sutherland, who also proves his star quality, and Tom Skerritt, both of whom give sensitive performances. "M.A.S.H.," though, is Gould's show—and he proves himself to be a very funny man. With true genius, he embellishes his comic role with serious overtones, using his sardonic exterior as only a thin disguise over a basically sentimental, emotional personality.

For most viewers, this film will sum up the "angst" of 1950's America.

Run Wild, Run Free

Here's a superior film for juveniles and one that's well worth a family outing to Kingston's Community Theatre, where special matinee showings are set for today and tomorrow.

Made in England and adapted from the novel, "The White Colt," it's a moving drama set in moor country. It tells of a mute, 10-year-old boy's struggle to break through an emotional barrier that prevents him from speaking. His handicap is particularly poignant when his pet, a wild, blue-eyed pony he has tamed, is bogged in a quagmire.

Mark Lester, who scored in the title role in "Oliver!", gives a sensitive performance as the boy. John Mills is perfect as the retired colonel who establishes communication with the boy through their mutual affinity for the moor and its wildlife. He teaches the boy how to tame the colt and how to train a falcon. Sylvia Sym and Gordon Jackson are excellent as the boy's anxious parents, disturbed over his handicap but unable to help him.

All in all, excellent children's entertainment.

Rider on the Rain

At the Rosendale currently is this nifty suspense thriller about a lady in distress and her problems of finding someone willing to help her out. It's a theme that has long been a favorite of Alfred Hitchcock and, although this is not a Hitchcock movie, the plot line still works nicely; is totally entertaining to watch.

Excitement aplenty is provided by a murdered man who won't stay dead, a husband you can't quite trust, an ambiguous stranger who comes on menacing but turns out nice.

Humor, humanity, chills and thrills all blend to make "Rider on the Rain" excellent movie fare. Charles Bronson is perfect as a handsome, hard-eyed investigator and Marlene Jobert is delightful as the pursued lady in distress.

The Bird With The Crystal Plumage

'M.A.S.H.' Voted Best 1970 Movie

NEW YORK (AP)—"M.A.S.H.," the Korean war satire, has been voted best movie of 1970 in the fifth annual poll of The National Society of Film Critics. It is the first American-made picture to win the distinction. Sweden's Ingmar Bergman was chosen the year's best director for his work on "The Passion of Anna," runner up in the best movie balloting. Bergman won the same honor for "Persona" in 1967 and "Shame" in 1968.

The society, whose members are film critics representing 14 magazines and two newspapers, announced the awards Sunday. George C. Scott was selected the year's outstanding actor for his portrayal of the title role in "Patton."

Glenda Jackson was named best actress for her characterization of the liberated sister in the dramatization of D. H. Lawrence's novel "Women in Love."

In previous years, the society honored the French-made "Z," the Swedish "Shame" and "Persona," and "Blow-Up," produced in England by an Italian.

Lovers and Other Strangers

Held over yet again (third week) at Red Hook's Lyceum is this light and romantic tale for light and romantic people. The laughs come fast and easy in this comedy, a slick and smooth movie adaptation of the Broadway show of the same title.

Where the stage production centered on a Jewish wedding, the film has switched to a middle-class Italian-American family. Problems abound when a young couple decide to wed and take a legal honeymoon after living together secretly for more than a year. Among those that surface: a crisis between the bride's father and his mistress, confrontations between the bride's sister and her husband, the womanizing pursuit of a bridesmaid by an usher.

And, best of all, beautiful, beautiful performances by a likeable and off-beat cast, including Bonnie Bedelia, Anne Mera, Harry Guardino, Gig Young and Anne Jackson.

Diary of a Mad Housewife

It's a first run in the area for this film, currently on view at the Orpheum in Saugerties. Considered by many critics as one of the best films of 1970 (it's on more than one top ten list), it delves into the agonies of middle-class marriage.

The main problems, however, seem to be the social climbing tendencies of the husband and the sophisticated adultery of the wife. Still, newcomer Carrie Snodgrass is excellent as the hapless heroine, who is trying hard to overcome her hang-ups. Richard Benjamin is her Ivy League husband who feels called upon to make cave man rumblings across the breakfast table.

Female movie-goers will probably dig Frank Langella as the surly, sarcastic, sadistic writer with whom the heroine has an affair. He's forceful and subtle by turns in a boisterous role.

And, in case you're wondering, there's a happy ending.

Sexual Practices Of Sweden

Hanging in there for yet another week at the New Paltz Cinema (courtesy of all of you out there who still don't know everything you always wanted to know about sex) is this foreign export. And sex it's about, with plenty of emphasis on bedside doings and anatomical details.

Strictly for the sexploitation enthusiasts, it's profusely illustrated with ways and means—a virtual primer of 'roll in de hay' education.

For Craftsmen: Furniture Art

Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen will be offering a course in beginning carpentry and furniture making. The course will be conducted by Stepehn Robin, Woodstock furniture designer, in his new studio on Glasco Turnpike.

The class will be geared to the beginning student who wishes to increase his skills so that he may be able to do more things around his home. The studio is elaborately equipped with all the machinery necessary to do everything in the woodworking area.

Instructor Robin, who maintains the "Furniture as Art Showroom" in Woodstock, has had his work in museums and shows throughout the state. His work has been acclaimed by "The New York Times" and several magazines and national publications. He is the senior delegate for New York State to the American Craftsman's Council. In 1967 he received a Woodstock Guild award for his furniture.

The class, which will start in late January or early February is a not-to-be-missed opportunity for all of those interested in working with wood. Further information may be had by writing to the Guild (ATTN: Woodworking class) or by phoning 679-8527 in Woodstock. The class is open to both men and women.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

King Arthur, himself, would feel-to-home dinin' at a Round Table in The Black Knight Restaurant, New Paltz.

Spearheadin' this gastronomical operation are owners Paul Thompson and Tony Liucci who've authenticated lounge's label with such accoutrements as helmet-shaped ice buckets, gilded plaques, coat of arms array, and corner fountain where modern-day Lancelot can woo his Guinevere in setting on par with allure of his lady-fair!

A history-buff for years, Tony Liucci's finally realizing life's ambition, serving elegant food in atmosphere which dates back to when knighthood was in bloom. Tho' small, dance floor will accommodate several two-steppin' couples (OR one active fencing pair). Tapes of such old-time favorites as "I'm in the Mood for Love" set the pace—and gracin' expanse of dining room wall is "new and accurate mappe of world, drawne according to latest discoveries," DATED 1628.

Open seven days a week, there's menu-appeal for both youth and "Middle Ages" with proprietor Tony's special recommendation for king-size African cold water lobster tail at $5.50. Then there's Stuffed Shrimp for $4.75; Knight-O-Bob Filets with mushrooms and peppers, $3.95; Char-broiled T-Bone, $4.95; Steak for Two (maybe three or four), $8; Filet Mignon, mushrooms or wine sauce, $6.75. For hearty appetites, Steak House Special, choice Porterhouse fit for King or Queen, $5.25; Shrimp Scampi, $3.75; Surf n' Turf, $7.50. Complete as bill of fare may be, Tony's promised by time-you-read-this, there'll be even more additions. As for that bubbly stuff, finest imported dinner wines, after-dinner cordials, and cocktails are concocted by Clarence Willner in Lounge.

Children's dinner specials include Jester's Rib Eye Steak for $2.50 and Page's Chopped Sirloin (or should we say Sir Loin?) for $1.95.

Appetizers list: chilled juice, shrimp cocktail, stuffed clams, fruit, soup. As for desserts: baked Alaska, spumoni, tortoni, cheese cake, parfaits, cream de menthe "puff." Anyway you look at it, it's a Royal Welcome for diners, be they nobility or rank 'n file.

Achieving a homey "living room air" has not been easy. Eight years ago the building was car wash, The PURPLE Parlor, to be exact. After that, it became The BLUE Eagle, complete with rock band. Today, no matter which way you color it, The Black Knight is quaint!

Hearty congratulations to Mrs. Maria Mohr who just celebrated her 89th birthday. Proud of her age AND her eight children—spread out coast to coast—she is now proud of greeting card from President and Mrs. Nixon. A special surprise was visit from son Paul (and family) from Washington. Paul travels throughout world for FBI; another son, John, also works under J. Edgar Hoover. With a family of engineers, managers, and government men, a family get-together must sound similar to David Frost interview!

The Fire and Ice Of Jose Greco

Jose Greco and the Nana Lorca Flamenco Dance Theater will headline a Spanish dance and music production 2 p.m. Jan. 17 in South Auditorium of Thayer Hall at West Point.

For more than a decade, Jose Greco's name has been synonymous with the finest of classical and contemporary dance. His performances have been described as a "blending of fire and ice."

Combined with the Greco troupe of dancers and musicians for the West Point show will be the Nana Lorca Flamenco Dance Theater. Nana Lorca, head of the Theater, is a performer and choreographer of great stature in Spain.

Appeared in Movies

Greco and his troupe of dancers and musicians have appeared in the Michael Todd production of "Around the World in 80 Days." Columbia Pictures "Ship of Fools," and on the TV shows of Bob Hope, Dean Martin and Ed Sullivan. Recordings of the Greco company's Spanish music have been issued by Decca, Columbia, RCA and MGM.

Tickets for the Greco Show are on sale at the West Point Officers Club, NCO and Service Clubs for $3.50. Cadet Fine Arts Forum season tickets are not good for the Greco performance.

Big Country Sounds From Small Package

By LEI

The best-looking member of Sherman Myer and the Country Three is the girl. The rest of the group tends to produce mental flashback to the age of Bill Haley and the Comets. Until they start to perform, that is. That's when the audience shifts attention from Gail Myer with her bright smile and sequins to the rest of the group. Sherman Myer and the Country Three is one of the longest-lasting musical groups in the area, since, with changes in the members, it has been performing for eight years. Leader and founder of the group is Sherman Myer, a native of Saugerties. Gail is his sister, and the lead female vocalist of the group. Sherman plays the only organ accordion one is likely to hear in this area — an "electrician's nightmare" that looks and plays like a billowless accordion, but is capable of a wide range of musical effects.

Joining Sherm occasionally as singer is the rhythm guitarist, diminutive Frank Tefft Jr., the newest member of the group. Frank is a better-than-average singer, but his most outstanding talent is imitating the pop of opening beer cans in the country classic "Pop a Top." Like noted country singer Jimmy Dickens, Frank proves that big sound sometimes comes in small packages!

Drummer DuVerney (and "sometimes singer") for the group is Robert DuVerney of Malden-on-Hudson. Robert used to be a rock-and-roll drummer — and he still is, providing a strong rhythmic backing for the group's more lively numbers. His talents were particularly outstanding as he accompanied Gail on her solo, "What the World Needs Is A Lot More Jesus And A Lot Less Rock And Roll."

Sherman Myer and the Country Three rely strongly on classical country songs, and on country hits familiar from the pop charts, but they give these numbers a refreshing and original flourish. Their unusual assortment of instruments adds to the unique effect.

Why would a boy from Saugerties, New York, like Sherman Myer, decide to start a country group eight years ago, when other entertainment-minded teens were drawing their inspiration from Liverpool? The Myer family had always enjoyed country music, and Sherman and Gail grew up listening to it. Sherman had always enjoyed performing, and the music he sang was the music that had surrounded him all his life — country and western. Starting with a simple accordion, Sherm advanced to more and more complicated instruments, until he graduated to his sleek, rare, accordion-organ.

Locally the group is in much demand. A recent holiday show for "Toys for Tots" was broadcast live over WKNY radio. The group was featured New Year's Eve at the High Woods Sportmen's Club. As country music increases in demand, the group feels they draw closer to a major "break."

Their Own Thing

There are a great many talented country groups, and very little room at the top of the ladder. In order to achieve major success, a group has to have something very original to offer. Sherm Myer and his group have more than just one original thing going for them.

They have an accordion that sounds like an organ. And a rhythm guitar player who sounds like a beer can. And a drummer who sounds like a heavy artillery test range. And they also have the ability to blend it all into an original country sound.

Add all that to the fact that they also have a really eye-catching girl (and she sounds good, too), and you've got a group that shows promise of climbing that elusive ladder.

Winter Conectr Of 150 Voices

The West Point Glee Club will present its annual winter concert tonight, Jan. 16 in the South Auditorium of Thayer Hall at 8 o'clock.

The performance, free and open to the public, will feature the 150 member West Point Glee Club, the Academy folk singing group, The Headliners, and solo performances by Joan Patenaude, Academy affiliate artist, and Specialist 5 Bradford Gowan.

Traditional Army songs will be mixed with contemporary hits such as "Aquarius," "Ticket to Ride" and the movie theme from Romeo and Juliet to make up the program.

Soprano Solo

Selections from the off-Broadway "Fantastiks" production will feature a solo by soprano Miss Joan Patenaude.

Specialist Bradford Gowan, who received his Master's degree from the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y., will round out the program with piano selections from Chopin and Rachmaninoff.

During the past year the West Point Glee Club has appeared nationally on the Bob Hope, Ed Sullivan and Mike Douglas TV shows and in the Liberty Bowl half-time show and Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York City.

Robert Reed's Busy

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Robert Reed will continue to star as the father in television's "The Brady Bunch" while playing a continuing role in the detective series "Mannix."

Three Broadway Hits

bride panics and locks herself in the bathroom.

"Zorba," the final show of the local series, has been called "the best Broadway musical since 'Fiddler on the Roof.'" The tale of an exuberantly lusty vagabond who teaches an uptight younger man how to live dashing always, it's flooded with the haunting bouzouki music and dancing that is modern Greece's contribution to the joy of life.

Three poignant love stories are threaded around the ebullient central figure, who liberates everyone he encounters from their inhibitions. In expressing the fierce joys and harsh sorrows of life in Greece today, "Zorba" is a brilliant, sunny, tuneful musical.

As noted, two top stars will appear in the production coming to Kingston. Vivian Blaine, star of the original Broadway production and the movie version of "Guys and Dolls," and Michael Kermoyan, who portrayed the Arab Auda in the movie "Lawrence of Arabia," and who has gained acclaim as the Siamese king in "The King and I" and the French planter in "South Pacific."

Also in the cast will be Thom Koutzoukos in the role of the young teacher who learns so much from rough-hewn, uneducated Zorba. A member of the original cast of "Fiddler on the Roof," he has also sung in a number of operas; has appeared on numerous TV broadcasts.

A sell-out is predicted for the series here—so better order your tickets soon by calling or writing Marge Thomas at the Community. (T.G.)

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

SO WHAT'S NEW?

On this third Saturday of the new year, I've had time to come up for air, look around the landscape and see what's new for '71. About all I can see for sure is that the Ulster County countryside looks about the same, most of my friends are still around, the same number of cars pass on 9W, and ROBERTO'S, like all other profit-making (hopefully) endeavors, will have to keep giving the public something more for their money, or go out of business for lack of customers.

And that's still nothing new for ROBERTO'S; that's what we've been trying to do since the day we opened the doors. As far as I'm concerned, I hope the public continues to grow more choosy, more demanding... if, at the same time, it grows more discerning. Places like ours exist only because there are enough people who can add 2 and 2 and get 4, not 3 or 6!

I think some people must like to get fooled, must hate to face the real cost of something they want, so they fix their attention on a low price, regardless of the knowledge that they're going to wind up paying more than that, to get anything like what they want.

Buying a Dinner that way is like kidding yourself about the price of your car, by figuring on the "bare bone" price, without the automatic transmission, air-conditioning, radio and white-walls. If you want some of those trimmings, you know your bill is going to be bigger than the advertised price.

If you want to spend less than $5.50 for a Dinner, ROBERTO'S can't oblige. But if you want your dinner price to INCLUDE your favorite Cocktail, the Relish Tray, the Shrimp Cocktail, the Salad, the fancy Dessert... plus the gracious atmosphere and the civil service... ROBERTO'S prices are almost immodestly modest. But enough of that, while I pick up on a few items of interest, as

Sunday.  Mrs. Lucy Perry was given a surprise Birthday Party by her daughter Cookie, and the dozen and a half well-wishers who were on hand were all ROBERTO regulars whom we've mentioned many times, and will mention many times again.  The Joseph Melniks, of Kingston, tendered a birthday dinner for Eunice Melnik. In addition to the birthday, there were Mrs. Jennie Primo, Mrs. John DeGasperis, Sr. and Miss Jeane Secreto, all of Kingston, and Mr. Gerard Beichert and Mrs. Kathleen Beichert, of Honolulu (Hawaii, that is), holders of the "Long Distance ROBERTO'S Guests" of 1971... so far!  On Saturday, Jan. 2nd, almost on the heels of the big New Year's Eve shindig, the "Port Ewen Saturday Soiree" was in session, with most of the regulars dropping in during the night. Augie not only sang, but induced his charming daughter Sharon to take a turn at the mike... and she has a lovely voice, undoubtedly inherited from Pop. Fran also sang for the crowd. Indubitably, the "Saturday Soirees" will get bigger and better. And so will

ERNIE'S MID-AFTERNOON CLUB.

For some months ROBERTO'S Cocktail Lounge has been the scene of a regular Saturday Afternoon turnout to watch the Big Football Games on Color TV, while enjoying favorite Cocktails... and the Hors d'Oeuvres we pass out during the game. Now that the football season is about over, I'm sure the "Club" will turn attention to other Sports Events, which they can watch without interfering with the wife's Soap Opera or the kids' favorite shows. This Sunday afternoon if you want to watch the big Sport Event of the year, the Superbowl, you'll find a bunch of simpatico spectators tuned to it in The Cocktail Lounge. And, as the old-time hymn has it: When the roll is called, I'll be there, too!
